Rockefeller's Service. Edison Is Only 40. 121,219 Games. Russia Growing.

NEWTON, Kan., Feb. 13.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr., tells the Senate Oil Committee "the greatest contribution that my father may have made during his life is not his philanthropies, but the investing of large sums in businesses well organized that render useful service to the public at fair profit, with adequate wages to employes."

THIS statement is justified. Standard Oil employes, and their wives with children depending on wages, testify to fair Standard Oil's treatment of its workers and business on a gigantic scale makes possible economies, otherwise unattainable.

MR. ROCKEFELLER giving more than five hundred millions to education and scientific fighting of disease, is a great improvement on the "Coal-Oil Johnny" type of oil man, taking baths in champagne, building up gambling houses.

In building up business to extreme efficiency, Mr. Rockefeller has rendered service. But history will say that his greatest service was destroying foolish belief in the value of competition.

THOMAS A. EDISON says he is really 162 years old, because he has done two days work every day of his 81 years.

He did ten thousand years work when he changed man's lighting system from kerosene to electricity. His habit of working two days in one accounts for the fact that mentally he is 40, not 81.

An active mind stays young, in man or woman.

Women grow old prematurely because badly organized civilization gives them nothing to do except talk and dress, when their children are grown.

C. H. CONKLIN, worthy citizen of Illinois, has played 121,219 games of solitaire in thirty years, keeping track of each game to figure the chances of winning. He would tell you, perhaps, that he has not gone far ahead in life because "chances are not what they once were." The difference between success and failure is largely the use or loss of so called "odd moments."

STATISTICS do not agree with what Lenin would call "the capitalist class" in their assumption that Russia must go to pieces under Bolshevism.

Moscow's population is 2,142,000, a gain of 112,400 in one year. In 1927, 28,000 died, 53,000 were born in Moscow. At that rate Russia would soon have another hundred million population.

PORTERS at Russian railway stations refuse tips, also sleeping car employes. Waiters probably do the same in the "equality of man" communist autocracy.

It is interesting, but it won't last, and in the meanwhile, the work will not be well done.

Abolish tips and you abolish comfort, as when you refuse oil to an automobile.

TURKEY is interested in a 50-year-old peasant, Agha Faoma, who lives with seven wives and 25 children in a one room shack. Agha is unhappy, not because he is crowded, but because Kemal Pasha compells him to give up three of the wives. Mohammed, saying that some concession must be made to human weakness, allowed four wives. Kemal says "no, only one." He did not make the law retroactive. Agha can keep the first four wives, but he must give up the last three, youngest, handsomest.

ESKIMOS, within reach of civilization, sell their valuable furs to white traders and wear coats of leather and cheap ready made suits. They can sympathize with some farmers that sell cream and butter to cities and eat oleomargarine.

FIVE CLUB GUARDS; TAMED

By International News Service.

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Feb. 13.—Two guards at the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane were beaten to death early today by one of five insane patients, who had escaped from their rooms.

After a terrific battle other guards succeeded in capturing the five raging maniacs.

The two guards, who were beaten to death with a piece of the leg of a bed, were Eugene Amlaw, 36, of Providence, R. I., and Wilfred Gerrior, 40, of Middleboro.

The battle took place in a corridor and the shouts of many of the 900 other patients, aroused by the shouting, could be heard above the din.

The leader of the insane patients escaped from his room by climbing to a transom above the door of his apartment. He had torn the furniture apart and carried with him the leg of a bed.

Crawling stealthily down a corridor outside his room, the man pounced upon Amlaw, who is in charge of the night watch and carries the keys to the hospital.

As Amlaw turned, the insane man dealt him a stunning blow with the weapon that he carried in his hands.

With Amlaw on the corridor floor, the prisoner delivered a second blow, killing him.

Snatching the keys, the insane man hurried along the corridor, opening the doors of rooms occupied by four other patients.

The five liberated prisoners ran at Gerrior, who was hurrying up as he heard the body of Amlaw fall.

In a trice, Gerrior was set upon and beaten. He had no time to fight for his life.

Another guard heard the commotion and sounded the alarm gong.

Slugger Attacks Woman

A slugger early today leaped upon Anne Hempel, 21, 2362 Vine street, North Side, and beat and robbed her as she was passing a dark alleyway near her home. Struck on the head, the girl managed to reach her home where she notified members of the family of the attack.

Miss Hempel told North Side police that the man stepped from the alleyway and hit her on the head. She was unable to tell whether her attacker was white or black. The slugger then stole a small purse containing 50 cents and fled. The young woman suffered a severe bruise on the head.

Slayer Born Here

DORIS M'DONALD

Convicted with her second husband of murdering a taxicab driver near Montreal, Doris McDonald succeeded for weeks in hiding her identity. However, a chance remark she made led newspapermen to discover her mother, Mrs. Hazel Snyder, in Chicago, who revealed that Doris was born in Pittsburgh 20 years ago. Her father is Lee Snyder, of Wheeling, W. Va. Mrs. McDonald will be hanged March 23.

GIRL TAXICAB DRIVER SLAYER BORN HERE

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—A Chicago woman today reeled under the weight of a tragic truth—that her own daughter is under sentence to die on a Canadian gallows.

The woman allowed herself to be identified only as Mrs. Hazel Snyder, 45, whose divorced husband, Lee Snyder, is now residing in Wheeling, W. Va. Her present name, which would identify the man she married after divorcing Snyder, was withheld.

It was late yesterday—the blow coming with shocking suddenness—that "Mrs. Snyder" learned the identity of Mrs. Doris Palmer McDonald, 20-year-old New York show girl, who, with her husband, is under sentence to die for the murder of a taxicab driver at Valleyfield, Que., near Montreal.

GUARDED IDENTITY

Doris had not divulged her mother's identity. Nor had she intentionally revealed details of her past through which newspapermen traced her history and located her mother. A chance remark she made led them to Mrs. Snyder here.

The girl was born 20 years ago last September 20 in Pittsburgh, her mother revealed. She was christened Eleanor May Wilth Snyder. She has a brother, Clyde, 19, residing with the mother, and a sister, now the ward of Dr. Frances Palmer, a woman physician at Oklahoma City.

"She was wealthy, and when she proposed to take my two daughters to rear I agreed only because I wanted every advantage for them," the mother sobbed.

DIDN'T KNOW OF MARRIAGE

"I had not known of my daughter's marriage to McDonald. Whatever she has done in recent years I know that she has not committed murder."

From Dr. Palmer in Oklahoma City more details of the girl's life were learned. In 1925 she went to New York and married Buster Allen. Shortly thereafter the couple

LOOT THREE SAFES OF $1,200

Safe-looting bandits operated in McKees Rocks, Knoxville and the downtown early today and obtained $1,200 in loot.

In Knoxville and McKees Rocks the Haller Baking Company plants were the targets. In each place the bandits smashed a window to gain entrance, moved the large, steel strong boxes onto the loading platforms and carted them away presumably on trucks.

Downtown the Black-Kiedaisch Company plant at 346-8 First avenue was entered and $100 removed from the safe, whose combination, it is believed was found in a drawer. A broken window, shattered by the Manchester gas blast on November 13, allowed entrance.

The Knoxville strong box yielded $885 and three pounds of fruit cake.

In McKees Rocks the loot amounted to $375 and company records.

Armed March Denied

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Feb. 13.—Dark, foreboding rumors of serious mine strike violence in this section today, which found their origin in the declaration last night that 1,000 striking miners would march on the Vesta Coal Company mines and demand that nonunionists drop their tools and join the strikers, were stilled today.

Twenty-one state troopers from nearby emergency posts, who rushed to the Vesta area, returned to their stations at 9 o'clock this morning.

REPORT ALL QUIET

They had completed four hours of special duty patrol and reported to Greensburg barracks that the district was quiet.

Before noon today Monongahela, Washington, Brownsville and Belle Vernon details were back at their respective stations.

No arrests were made in any of the Vesta territories of Washing-

HOOVER OUT FOR PRESIDENT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Herbert Hoover became a full-fledged, open and avowed candidate for the presidency today.

He gave his consent to the posting of his name in the Ohio primary, thereby paving the way for a slam-bang battle with Senator Frank B. Willis, Ohio's self-designated favorite son, and this is to be followed by entry into other state primaries, notably in New Jersey, Maryland, Michigan, Oregon, California and perhaps several others.

Henceforth the Hoover campaign, which has been prosecuted vigorously under the surface since last August, will be conducted in the open. The die is cast. Hoover is an avowed candidate, the most prominent yet to appear, and as such he becomes the legitimate target for all other candidates, potential and otherwise.

"My conviction that I should not strive for the nomination, and my obligations as Secretary of Commerce, preclude me from making any personal campaign," said the cabinet candidate in a letter to Col. Thad H. Brown, consenting to the use of his name. I must rely wholly upon my friends in Ohio to conduct it and to conduct it in a fair manner

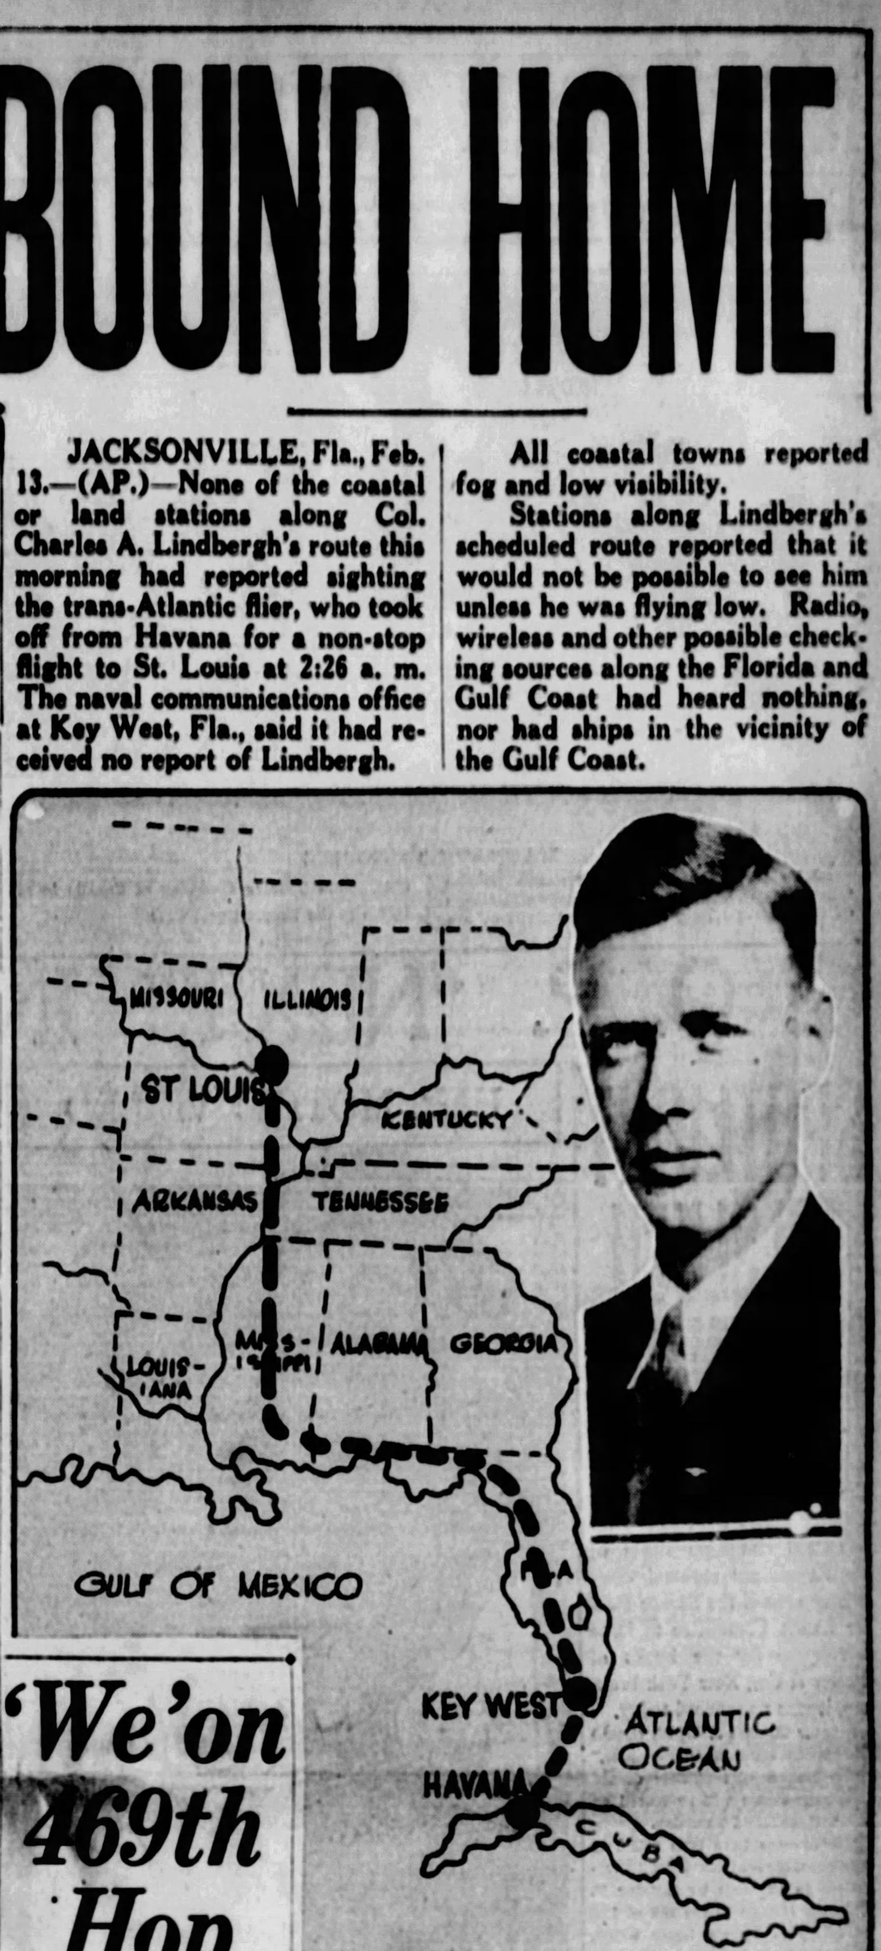
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 13.—(AP.)—None of the coastal or land stations along Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's route this morning had reported sighting the trans-Atlantic flier, who took off from Havana for a non-stop flight to St. Louis at 2:26 a. m. The naval communications office at Key West, Fla., said it had received no report of Lindbergh.

All coastal towns reported fog and low visibility.

Stations along Lindbergh's scheduled route reported that it would not be possible to see him unless he was flying low. Radio, wireless and other possible checking sources along the Florida and Gulf Coast had heard nothing, nor had ships in the vicinity of the Gulf Coast.



COL. LINDBERGH AND ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS

Just one year after an obscure pilot, named Lindbergh, hopped off from St. Louis on his last air mail flight to Chicago, officials of the St. Louis Airport today are awaiting the triumphal return of the world's best known young man, named Lindbergh, who is making a non-stop flight from Havana. Map shows Col. Lindbergh's probable route.

'We'on 469th Hop

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off today from Havana for St. Louis, home port from which the Spirit of St. Louis got its name, he left behind him an air trail untraveled in large part before the partnership of "We" blazed its way along the overhead route above mountains and jungles.

The flying colonel left Washington for Mexico City two months ago today, pushing on to the Mexican capital in a day and night of steady air travel. Since then he has covered 8,000 miles and visited 12 countries and two United States possessions.

In the two months the Lone Eagle has dropped in on Mexico, Guatemala, British Honduras, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, the Virgin Islands, Porto Rico, the Dominican republic, Haiti and Cuba.

TRAVELS 40,000 MILES

In nine months the flyer who was converted from an air mail carrier to an ambassador of good will from the United States to the whole world has flown over 40,000 miles in America and Europe.

He started his flight to fame at San Diego, Cal., May 10, flying then as now, to St. Louis. His first flight in the Spirit of St. Louis was a record, for the 1,350-mile trip from San Diego to St. Louis made a new distance record for airman flying alone without a stop. He stopped in St. Louis only long enough to say that the monoplane bearing the Missouri city's name would do and then continued to New York.

He made aviation history with his flight from New York to Paris May 20-21 and returning to the United States saw America first when he visited every state in a three months' tour, covering 22,350 miles and including visits to more than three score cities.

VARIOUS SIDE FLIGHTS

He also made a number of side flights, going from New York to St. Louis, to Washington and Ottawa, Canada. The Spirit of St. Louis has made 468 flights and has traveled approximately 40,000 miles.

The flight to St. Louis now under way is the fourth longest single hop the plane has been called on to make. The flight to Paris, 3,600 miles, was the hardest; next, to Mexico City, 2,200 miles, and third, the opening test, from San Diego to St. Louis. In his tour of Central and South America only one flight was more than 1,000 miles, the trip from Maracay, Venezuela, to St. Thomas, Virgin Island, being 1,020 miles.

When he left Havana for St. Louis, Lindbergh started his 2,327th hour in the air in his six years of flying which has taken him over an estimated distance of more than 200,000 miles.

LINDY SPEEDS HOMEWARD

By International News Service.

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 13.—A plane believed to be that of Col. Lindbergh passed over Tortugas Lighthouse, 12 miles southwest of here, about 4 a. m. today.

The passing of the plane was reported by the light keeper, who said it came out of the south and headed due west.

HAVANA, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—Lindy was following the long trail home today.

His good will flight completed, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from Columbia flying field at 2:26 o'clock this morning for his home port of St. Louis, a flight of some 1,200 miles. Night still hung over the waters of the Straits of Florida as Lindbergh headed over them on the only water jump of his flight to Key West, Fla.

HEADS OVER WATER

As the Spirit of St. Louis left the dimly lighted field only the steady throb of its motor traced its course to the open sea. From Key West Lindbergh's route led along the Gulf of Mexico to a point south of St. Louis, from where it turned north to that city.

The plane was loaded with 225 gallons of gasoline, half its capacity. It was estimated that this would carry Lindbergh for 20 hours. The flight, the fourth longest in his career, was expected to end at Lambert Field, St. Louis, soon after 2 o'clock this afternoon. The three flights which have exceeded the present one in distance were: New York to Paris, 3,600 miles; Washington to Mexico City, 2,200 miles, and San Diego to St. Louis, 1,350 miles.

Cheers rose from the spectators on the field as the flier swept over them, leaving behind a message of good will and enshrined in their hearts. Miniature flags of 13 countries visited on his tour painted on the fuselage of the Spirit of St. Louis attested the affection of Latin America for "We." These represented Mexico, Guatemala, British Honduras, Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, the Dominican Republic, Haiti and Cuba. Lindbergh also made stops at two United States possessions, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Lindbergh, fit and smiling, arrived at the field, accompanied by Ambassador Nobel Brandon Judah and Mrs. Judah, at 1:30 a. m. The Cuban band struck up a lively march and the Spirit of St. Louis was wheeled from the hangar, while the flier walked about the field hunting a suitable place for a take-off.

MORE SANDWICHES

He returned to the plane, stowed his luggage and a few sandwiches aboard and taxied to the far end of the field at the opposite end from the hangars. Ambassador Judah and Mrs. Judah followed him in an automobile, lighting the way.

He started from the polo field, and as the plane sped over the bumpy ground it passed close to one of the goal posts. Half way down the field he was in the air and rushing along just raised the plane to clear the hangars. The spectators and a large number of the Cuban flying corps cheered and threw their hats into the air.

For 15 minutes the sound of his motor was heard as he circled around, apparently seeking his bearings. Lindbergh made a final circle over the field and gave three flashes of his signal lights in fare-

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is shown on the witness stand before the Public Lands Committee of the Senate telling of the transactions of the Continental Trading Company of Canada in relation to the Teapot Dome Case.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER JR. SENATOR NYE

This photograph shows John D. Rockefeller, Jr., (on left) and Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, chairman of the committee that questioned him.

AFTER THE HEARING

A throng was on hand to get a glimpse of Rockefeller when he left the Senate office building, accompanied by Senator Nye, after he had answered questions designed to shed light on obscure details of the Teapot Dome transaction.

G. O. P. "NEXT" IN OIL PROBE

SPOTLIGHT ON SLUSH FUND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Development that some of the Teapot Dome slush fund Liberty bonds went to pay off the 1920 campaign debts of the Republican national committee caused the Senate Public Lands Committee to issue a subpena for the books of Potter & Co., New York brokers, it was announced today.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, committee "prosecutor," made known that officials of the brokerage house will be placed on the witness stand Thursday.

The brokers have been asked to produce their complete file with reference to the sale by Senator T. Coleman Dupont in the fall of 1923 of $75,000 in Liberty bonds which, the committee has been told, were secured from Harry F. Sinclair, oil millionaire.

Sinclair originally gave the bonds to Will H. Hays 15 months after the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve was leased to Sinclair by the then Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall.

At the same time committee experts are attempting to hook up additional bonds of the $75,000 with the $3,080,000 slush fund accumulated by the Continental Trading Company in an oil deal linked with the Teapot lease.

Already $25,000 of the bonds have been identified through serial numbers, as coming from the $3,080,000 worth of bonds purchased by the Continental.

While these steps were in progress Senator Walsh told Universal Service he was running down other leads which may bring forth additional sensational disclosures with reference to the identity of the beneficiaries of the $3,080,000 funds.

In the meantime political Washington buzzed with excitement today as politicians of both parties read the details of the disclosures.

Rumors that some of the Teapot bonds—popularly so called because Sinclair gave $223,000 of them to Fall a few weeks after the oil lease was signed—reached the coffers of the G. O. P., have long floated around the corridors of the Capitol, but yesterday witnessed the first verification of the rumor.

Senator Walsh said today that Will Hays will not be called to the witness stand until the investigating committee lays a basis for his part of the story.

It is probable that one member of the committee will visit Senator Dupont, who is now very ill at his home, to give him a chance to tell his side of the story.

From the statement of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made to the committee, it was inferred that the Rockefeller interests may go after Col. Stewart's scalp, and force him off the Standard board.

ton county today. The Crescent mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Phillipsburg, two miles above here, reported everything quiet.

When the 5 o'clock picket lines assembled at Vesta 4 and 6 mines this morning troops were nearby.

The picket lines are no larger than usual for a Monday morning, union officials reported.

Reports began to circulate in California early yesterday evening that more than 1,000 strikers from the upper Monongahela valley would gather in California and march to each of the Vesta and Pittsburgh Coal Company mines.

Today union officials denied this, adding that they had issued no proclamation or orders asking for other than the customary turnout of mine gate picketers.

FRANKLIN BANKER HAS CHECK LINCOLN SENT

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 13.—Frank W. Officer, veteran banker here today exhibited an original Abraham Lincoln check, which bears the date of 1861, drawn on the Riggs bank. It directs payment of $3 to "Mr. Johns, a sick man."

MINE SQUIRE NOT GOING TO PROBE

J. M. O'Rourke, Curry justice of the peace, against whom 12 criminal charges have been filed through Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, will not go to Washington to testify before the Senate at this time, it was learned today. He was invited to go to Washington by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who intended coming here to investigate the charges against the "Squire," but cancelled his visit at the last moment and extended the invitation instead.

"Squire" O'Rourke received a telegram yesterday from Senator Wheeler, advising him to remain in Pittsburgh until the Senate investigating committee had taken action as to an inquiry into conditions in the Western Pennsylvania coal fields.

Senator Wheeler visited Curry and Bruceton about a week ago and investigated conditions there, following the shooting up of the towns by strikebreakers, and when he learned of the charges against Squire O'Rourke, he characterized them as "outrageous."

The charges against O'Rourke include conspiracy, aggravated assault and battery and pointing firearms in connection with the alleged confession of a non-union man that he was hired by coal and iron police to "shoot up" the town. The squire is at liberty under $3,200 bail.

Phillip Murry, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, has returned from Washington, where he appeared before the committee. He would not comment upon the possibility of a Senate investigation, and said he had not talked with any of the senators.

Throughout the Pittsburgh district, quiet reigned among the union and non-union miners over the week-end. No disorders were reported in any of the mining towns, although state police were called at Canonsburg Saturday morning when non-union men complained that they were taken from busses while en route to work. A detail of troopers was assigned to patrol duty in that district this morning.

well to Ambassador and Mrs. Judah.

Immediately after the take-off Capt. Laborde, Lindberg's Cuban aide, announced that he was worried, as a strange rustling sound came from the plane and he thought the motor might not be functioning properly. The lights of the escorting automobile were maneuvered to provide the best illumination possible in event of a landing.

Fears were soon dispelled, however, when a steady whir indicated that the motor was functioning properly.

After assurance of Lindbergh's safety was signaled to spectators the crowd started to melt away.

IN ONE YEAR'S TIME

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—Col. Charles At Lindbergh, who one year ago today took off from Lambert-St. Louis on his last airmail trip to Chicago, was eagerly awaited here at the same field after taking off from Havana, Cuba, on a non-stop flight of approximately 1,390 miles.

Although it was his third homecoming since his epochal flight to Paris the enthusiasm of the city which sent him forth had not abated but the joyous outbursts of feeling had turned to a steady glow of pride and concern for the flier and his achievements.

Maj. William B. Robertson, of Lambert-St. Louis Field, recalled today that a year ago the group of men who placed their confidence in "Slim Lindbergh," the air mail flier, were having a hard time in securing backers for the trans-Atlantic flight.

"How time flies," mused Maj. Robertson. "Last February we were working to raise the capital for the flight. Today—one year from the time Col. Lindbergh took off for Chicago on his last air mail trip we greet him, not as an exceptionally fine air mail pilot, but as an ambassador extraordinary who has made a wonderful goodwill flight through the Latin-American republics."

JACKSON JURY COMPLETE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 13.—(AP.)—A jury for the trial of Gov. Ed Jackson, charged with conspiracy to commit a felony and attempt to bribe, was obtained at 10:10 o'clock this morning.

Seven vocations are represented on the jury.

The 12 peers who will determine the innocence or guilt of Gov. Jackson are composed of the following men:

David Porterfield, salesman; Fred L. Collwegg, business man; Elmer Geiger, Greenwood farmer; Everett S. Penn, salesman; H. B. Hostetter, state secretary of the Presbyterian Church; Percy L. Allen, machinist; William H. Howard, secretary Indianapolis Board of Trade; Samuel H. Colbert, Negro laborer; Hubert Adams, carpenter; Ira A. Minnick, business man; Ivan Fowler, farmer; Evert McClain, machinist.

The jury was completed after examination of two talesmen. Neither state nor defense made any effort to do other than fill the one vacant chair that confronted them when adjournment was taken last Friday.

While attorneys conferred with the court following the swearing of the jury, Gov. Jackson remained in his chair, thoughfully studying the 12 men.

BLIZZARD GRIPS MIDWEST

DENVER, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—Snow, driven by a strong northwest wind, developed into a blizzard as it swept over Central Colorado last night, blocking roads and leaving several motor parties marooned near Lafayette. While thermometers dropped to low marks in Montana and Wyoming, only light snow was reported in those states.

The storm bore out forecasts for a cold wave extending into the Middle West and Southwest to end more than a month of unusually high temperatures.

OAKLAND BOARD OF TRADE BOOMS DOWNTOWN BOULEVARD PROJECT

"Eminently practicable and feasible without any unusual construction difficulties," is City Engineer Charles W. Reppert's opinion of the Colwell street boulevard project between downtown and the Oakland district. Reppert's expression is given in a letter to Gen. Albert J. Logan, one of the fathers of the movement, which will be read at a meeting of the Oakland Board of Trade Tuesday night. The route would traverse Colwell street from an outlet to the Liberty Bridge across Moultrie street on a viaduct, skirt the side of Gazzam's Hill above Soho and crossing Robinson street by another viaduct would follow Terrace street to the Pitt Stadium, where it would curve into O'Hara street to the intersection with Bigelow boulevard. It is pointed out that surveys of the route were made 10 years ago when estimates of the physical costs and property damages "did not appear to be excessive or out of proportion to the traffic possibilities."

GREATEST "ALL AMERICAN"

Lincoln's Birthday and Washington's Birthday America's Two Greatest Days

OUR two great men are George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Lincoln was ALL AMERICAN. Unlike Washington, he never lived under English rule. He was born, lived and died a poor man, except for the few years when this country paid him the magnificent salary of $25,000 a year.

Lincoln was born in a little wooden house with no windows, only bare earth for a floor.

His mother, who was Nancy Hanks, probably could not read or write.

Every child of the public schools knows the inspiring story of Lincoln's life.

He studied by the light of a wood fire, writing on a piece of board, planing it off, and writing again. He walked miles to get a book. He lacked what we call "education," but acquired something infinitely more important, information and a true idea of life's values.

Trained in a school of Hardship, he patiently carried the burden through the long Civil War, only to be killed at the end.

NOT only this country, but the whole world honors Lincoln, his character, his work, his birthday.

His mother is honored as she should be in the hearts of men and women. For in creating her son, Abraham Lincoln, it was she that preserved this Union, earning the blessing of North and South alike.

LINCOLN was the typical American. He combined a sense of humor with unlimited kindness and sympathy. Any man who did his duty, Lincoln considered an equal. No man was below him that was an honest man, and no man above him, unless that man had done something more useful than Lincoln had done. And there is no such man in the history of this nation.

Lincoln was modest, a man of really humble mind, combined with infinite courage, mental and physical.

Free from the ordinary weaknesses of men, he sympathized with them, and understood them.

WHEN it was said of one general that he was inclined to be haughty, and that Lincoln "took too much from him," Lincoln said he would gladly hold that man's stirrup for him to mount his horse if he would ride out and do something.

When another general, Grant, was criticized because he drank whisky, Lincoln, who was absolutely temperate, said, "I wish I knew what kind of whisky Grant drinks. I'd buy it for some other generals."

LOOK at Lincoln's face, printed here. You read in it strength, determination, perfect simplicity that is the sign of true greatness. And in his heart, if you could read it, you would find kindness, and gentleness that also accompany true greatness.

This is a letter that Lincoln wrote to an unfortunate mother who lost five sons in the Civil War:

Executive Mansion,
Washington, Nov. 21, 1864.

To Mrs. Bixby, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Madam: I have been shown on the files of the War Department a statement by the adjutant general of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours very sincerely and respectfully,
A. LINCOLN.

THAT letter written by Lincoln to an unhappy mother in the dark days of national worry and discouragement, tells what kind of man is honored on Lincoln's birthday.

PITTSBURGH PAYS LINCOLN HOMAGE

Special services were held in scores of local churches yesterday in observance of Lincoln's Birthday, and many civic and patriotic bodies gathered to honor the Great Emancipator's memory. Many other celebrations will be held today, which is being observed as a holiday in the banks and business houses.

More than 1,000 persons attended the annual Lincoln Day celebration of Fort Pitt General Assembly, fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, held last night in the Harris Theater. The Rev. Dom. Wilfred Upson, leader of the Benedictines of Caldey Abbey of Caldey, South Wales, was the speaker. Boy Scouts attended services last night in the Beechview Methodist Episcopal Church, at which time the Rev. W. Sproule Boyd, pastor, spoke on "Abraham Lincoln—a Doer of the Word."

The Lincoln Club of North Braddock will hold its annual banquet tonight in the North Braddock Elks Temple. Speakers will be Congressman Clyde Kelly, State Senator W. D. Mansfield, Attorney Benjamin Lencher and Burgess G. Fenton Mitchell.

Banks and stock exchanges are closed today. The retail stores and most offices are open, as usual, however.

The public schools are having their customary sessions today, but in most of them exercises are being held in memory of the Great Emancipator.

SPUR HUNT AS FLOOD EBBS

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Feb. 13.—Rapidly receding waters of the Tuscarawas River today aided searchers for the body of Miss Viola May, 23, slain and thrown into the stream by her brother-in-law, William D. Herron, 41, according to his alleged confession.

The Tuscarawas was down to about its normal stage today, an average depth of seven or eight feet, after recent rains had carried it four or five feet higher with a strong current.

TO EXTEND SEARCH

The river below the White bridge, Dover, where Herron says he dropped the girl's body into the water, has been thoroughly combed. Searchers today prepared to drag the river farther south and near the point where Herron's automobile was found, after he is alleged to have attacked the young woman, then choked her to death.

Coroner Jo F. Lewis halted plans to dynamite the stream. The blast might mutilate the body, he contends, and thus bolster the cause of the defense in event the body was mutilated before being cast into the river.

While the theory that a shallow grave may hold the girl's body has not been entirely discarded and thorough search of the vicinity of the gravel pit where articles of the girl's clothing were found has disclosed nothing, the general opinion of local authorities is that Herron threw the corpse into the river, as he confessed.

LINK HIGHWAY MAN IN FAKE TITLE RING

Sergt. J. G. McCann of the state police arrived in the city from Harrisburg yesterday to represent the State Highway Department in the investigation concerning an employe in the offices of the registrar of motor vehicles supplying owners' licenses and forged titles to automobile thieves. This information was uncovered by Detectives P. E. Moran and Peter Connors through the arrest of John Montgomery, 27, and George Rightner, alias George Cooper, 30.

The prisoners are being held without bail following their arrest in a house at 240 South Mathilda street. Sergt. McCann conferred with the local detectives regarding the information they had obtained concerning the faked titles.

BUTLER PASTOR WILL LECTURE HERE TUESDAY

The Rev. A. H. Baldinger, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Butler, will speak on "The Paramount Problem of Protestantism" in Pressley chapel of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, West North avenue, at 11 a. m. Tuesday.

LOPEZ'S DANCER TRIES SUICIDE

MLLE. SIMONE ROSERAY

Simone Roseray, featured dancer at the Casa Lopez night club, New York, failed in an effort to end her life in a Central Park lake early Sunday. An unrequited love for Vincent Lopez, jazz band leader and proprietor of the Casa Lopez, was the motive for her attempt, police declared. She is in the Lexington Hospital, threatened with pneumonia. A picture of Lopez, torn to bits, was found in the girl's handbag.

'FOX' FACES 2D KILLING TRIAL

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 13.—Already branded by a jury verdict of "sane" as a kidnaper-killer, William Edward Hickman today began to assume his second role, that of bandit-killer.

While his attorneys sharpened their legal weapons for the struggle to avert the death penalty, the state began today to prepare for its second attempt to send Hickman to the gallows for another murder than that of the 12-year-old Marian Parker.

The second attempt will be launched Wednesday, when Hickman, together with his 16-year-old confessed accomplice, Welby Hunt, comes to trial in Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy's court for the slaying of C. Ivy Thoms, Los Angeles druggist, in a robbery on Christmas eve, 1926.

Jerome Walsh, chief defense counsel, indicated today that he will ask for a 30-day continuance of the trial on the grounds that the Marian Parker case has not permitted him and his associates the opportunity to prepare evidence.

State prosecutors feel confident that Judge J. J. Trabucco will impose the extreme penalty when Hickman appears before him for sentence tomorrow, but intimated that they will push the Thoms murder charge against Hickman as a double precaution.

Both Hickman and Hunt have confessed to joint participation in the drug store holdup resulting in Thoms' death, but accuse each other of having fired the fatal shot.

Hickman's plea in the Thoms case is a double one, "not guilty" and "not guilty by reason of insanity."

CHARGE DRY PRISONERS WITH MOTOR THEFTS

MERCER, Pa., Feb. 13.—Released on bail on a charge of transporting liquor, John Ruby, 21, and Ernest Unch, 19, both of Masury, O., were rearrested here today by Federal Officer Fred Ames, of Pittsburgh, to answer a charge of transporting stolen automobiles in interstate commerce. They have been stealing machines in Youngstown and selling them in Sharon, Sharpsville and Farrell, according to Ames.

MORE WOE FOR DRILL SHIRKER

Prohibition Agent Edward J. Lawler is having more than his share of trouble. It started with his arrest and jailing Saturday for failure to report for drill as a member of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, and culminated last night when a man ran against his automobile in Anderson street, North Side, and was injured fatally.

The victim was John Bockman, 26, who lived in the Columbia houseboat in the Allegheny River at the foot of Mendota street.

Lawler must give bond before the coroner today pending an inquest into the man's death, and again tonight he must face a court-martial in the Logan Armory.

North Side police say Bockman was being chased by another man when he ran against Lawler's machine.

LUTHERAN MEN MEET HERE TOMORROW

Pittsburgh will be host to delegates from 700 Lutheran churches throughout the country tomorrow and Wednesday upon the occasion of the nineteenth annual Lutheran Men's Missionary conference.

"Winning Men for Christ" is to be the theme of the conference. The Rev. John T. Stone, of Chicago, will introduce the subject at tomorrow's mass meeting in the English room of the Fort Pitt Hotel. The Rev. R. E. Golladay, of Columbus, will speak on "Christ's Passion for Souls" at the afternoon meeting and leaders in the discussion will be Otto Mayer, Pittsburgh, and the Rev. George Troutman, of Circleville.

A dinner will be held tomorrow evening in the Fort Pitt Hotel and speakers for the second day of the conference will include the Rev. W. E. Tressel, of Fremont, O.; Arthur Schmidt, of Wheeling, and the Rev. Charles Pflueger, of Columbus.

MARRYING FOR LOVE

MARY JANE CLARK

Mary Jane Clark, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, will be married tonight to James W. Myers, of Crafton. She considers business good training for the position of being a wife and manager of a home.

'BACHELOR GIRL' DESERTS RANKS

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

She is going to marry for love! And she is one of our most prominent and independent bachelor girls—one of the least suspected of being romantic.

Mary Jane Clark admits quite freely that she's in love—love of the plain old-fashioned kind, without frills or new-fangled experiments. This evening at 5 o'clock the wedding bells at Trinity will chime for Mary Jane and James W. Myers, of Crafton, a widower and prominent business man.

MARRIAGE—SPLENDID THING

In her office at Trinity Church the president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club sat and talked of marriage as a "splendid thing for every woman." She laughed at the idea that anyone might call her "an old maid" and reminisced over the days when it was considered a dreadful thing to remain unmarried until past 30.

Her marriage announcement came as such a complete surprise as she has always been considered the type of woman who places a career above matrimony. In other words, she was frequently spoken of as a "real bachelor girl."

And now that she has gone and "knocked the props out from in under the entire world of business women here," as one of her friends put it, everybody has wondered how come. This is what she said:

"Yes, I am marrying because I am in love. I would have married younger I guess if I had fallen in love before. I'm glad, though, that I waited, for I consider that I am capable of being a better wife because I am a business woman. What is being a wife and the head of a home but business? I'm old enough to be tolerant and understand my husband's viewpoint about things and respect it."

"What about this idea of being set in your ways," Mary Jane was reminded.

"That is true only of people who are not intelligent. People with brains certainly don't think they know it all."

Mr. and Mrs. Myers will keep house. Mary Jane wants to do her own work, "if Jim will let me, although I know it isn't his idea to have me do it."

Therein she admits that "Jim" will be the head of the house. But she added:

"I am going to go on working for a few months until I get everything ready for someone to step into my place here at the church. Then I shall retire from active business and devote myself to club work and anything that happens to interest me. My husband-to-be is an enthusiastic fraternity man himself and entirely in sympathy with my club work."

Too, Mrs. Myers will be stepmother to a 20-year-old son, studying medicine at Pitt. She is very fond of him and they are good friends.

Does she believe in companionate marriage? Not for herself at least. She is marrying because she wants to have her husband with her and be a real companion to him.

On that point, Mary Jane says:

"People in love don't look for trouble and unhappiness before they marry. They believe their marriage is going to be the best in the world and that nothing could happen."

Plain old horse sense thank goodness! Refreshing in this day of shopping in husbands and wives.

HOOVER OUT FOR PRESIDENCY

ENTERS OHIO PRIMARY RACE

with steadfast regard for Republican success in the state and nation. It is my special desire that expenditure of money shall be strictly limited and rigidly accounted for.

"If the greatest trust which can be given by our people should come to me, I should consider it my duty to carry forward the principles of the Republican party and the great objectives of President Coolidge—all of which have brought to our country such a high degree of happiness, progress and security."

WILLIS CONFIDENT

Senator Willis, who a week ago publicly warned Hoover that if he "dared" come into Ohio "it will be no kid-glove or powder-puff affair," took the attitude today, "Well, I warned him."

"When the primary in Ohio is over," said Willis, "Mr. Hoover will know whether these self-appointed friends of his (in Ohio) who have dragged him into this contest have advised him correctly. However, Mr. Hoover is welcome. I am confident of the result."

The Hoover managers plan to go into every one of the 22 districts in Ohio and organize a slate of delegates to the Kansas City convention. They face a tough fight, for in most of the districts the congressman and the state committeeman are on the Willis side. Willis controls the Republican organization in Ohio, through his power in patronage, and he intends to compel his supporters to stand up and be counted. A majority of the congressional delegation and almost the entire state committee are on record as opposing Hoover's entry into the state.

The Hoover managers, on the other hand, take the position that the organization leaders do not represent the thought of the rank and file of Ohio voters. April 3 will tell the story.

DON'T EXPECT "SWEEP"

The most optimistic of the Hoover managers do not expect to capture all of the Ohio delegation of 51. They would regard anywhere from 32 to 35 as a substantial victory. It is conceded that Hoover will get some of the delegates from the larger cities of the state. The Cincinnati organization, which is wet, is avowedly against Willis, but most of the practical politicians of Washington consider Willis almost invincible in the rural communities of the state.

The Ohio contest furnishes the first practical test of Herbert Hoover's popular support for the presidency. As such it will rivet the undivided attention of politicians and president-makers for the next two months.

It is not the present intention of the Hoover handlers to go into other favorite-son states, like Indiana and Kansas, where Senators Watson and Curtis have already announced. Ohio was selected for the first big test of the Hoover strength because it is always debatable ground in any political contest and because there appeared to be enough real Hoover sentiment in the state to risk the joust.

The results shown there will go a long way toward convincing the anti-Hoover elements in the part as to whether the cabinet candidate can or cannot be stopped at Kansas City.

When Skinny Men Grow Manly

Five or 10 Pounds of Flesh on Their Bones Make a Lot of Difference.

Out in the country they used to say "Just as thin as a fence rail" and after Jim had somehow managed to grow more shapely and add more weight they used to say,

"Jim's a real good looking fellow since he took on flesh."

And that's the way it goes all over the world; the skinny, gaunt man can never be attractive or look manly until he puts more flesh on his scantily covered bones.

Many thin men have gained in weight and at the same time in vigor and attractiveness—no thin man can do it unless he tries.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

TWINS—14 OF 'EM—IN ONE SCHOOL

Being a twin is very much like having a dual personality. Or, rather, like having a very stubborn shadow following you around all the time, wanting to do just the opposite from what you want to do.

It must be quite upsetting. That is, according to seven sets of twins who spun their tale of woe at Harding High School, Woodlawn, yesterday. In some ways, having a double, so to speak, is all right. In others too much like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. (The speaker, of course, being the good doctor.)

Harding school holds the Beaver valley twin record. They are all interesting and differ remarkably in personality.

For instance, Mary and Mildred Collins, 15. Mary is a tall red head who dotes on vegetables. Mildred is a head shorter than her twin and craves nothing but pie and cake and things that aren't any too good for her. They are both in 10-B, neck to neck in their studies, but seldom seen together. The red-headed sister is jolly and giggles about everything. Brown haired Mildred is serious. Mary, she admitted herself, likes the boys. Mildred is almost a man-hater.

LIKE TWO PEAS

Oppositely, there are the McGraw sisters. Their mother has to tie different colored ribbons around their necks to tell them apart. Pauline and Jane are 13 and in Grade 8-A. Always together and with tastes almost exact, the McGraw twins can't understand the attitude of the Collins twins toward each other. Pauline is a violinist and Jane a pianist. They play together, and when they dance they are as one in their rhythm. Even their tastes in food and amusements are the same.

But! They have their little troubles, too. There is one big snarl in the perfection of their existence. They don't always want to wear the same dresses.

"Whoever talks the fastest and gets worn out first wins," Pauline explained, grinning at her shadow.

Edna and Harriet Kennedy, 15, and in grade 8-A get along much the same as the McGraw sisters. But they differ in their talents. Edna likes to recite and appear in public. Harriet doesn't. She even gave up playing the piano. They are blondes and as much alike as two peas in their looks.

DON'T LIKE GIRLS

Curtis and Clare Griffian are brothers that look no more alike than strangers. Curtis has brown hair, Clare black. They agree perfectly about what they like to eat and do. Both are excellent swimmers and skaters. They are together constantly and wow! but the girls came in for a panning when they were asked if they by any chance liked the same girl. There was a rousing chorus:

"We don't go around with women!"

And they are sweet 16. The Roth twins, Della and Frank, are 16, too. They are nearly the same height and weight, but Della is brown-haired and Frank a red head. He argued that his hair is blond. But it isn't! It is a carroty red and Della has been cheated. She should have been blessed with it. They like similar amusements, but are inclined to nag at each other. However, Fred attributes the tendency to the fact that it is but natural for a girl to nag at a fellow.

THESE TWINS APART

Elizabeth Charles and her twin brother, Francis, don't hang around much together. As a matter of fact, their tastes are as wide apart as the two poles. The only thing they enjoy doing together is playing piano duets. Which they are said to do very well. They are 12, in 8-B, and Elizabeth is much darker.

Richard and Robert Conrady, 14, resemble one another facially, but Richard is more ruddy than his brother. Robert has had two pretty bad sick spells that have held him back until he is a grade behind his brother. Richard plays the clarinet and violin and Robert a saxaphone.

So, these seven sets of twins prove—what? That even if George A. Dorsey, the great psychologist, himself can figure out how they can be so close, and yet so different in looks, personality, tastes and disposition he is doing very well.

WATCHMAN IS SLUGGED

Matthew Watson, 42, a watchman at the plant of the Koehler & Streng Company, Noblestown road, near Carnegie, was beaten unconscious early yesterday by an unidentified man who struck him on the head with an iron bar. The man escaped. Watson could give no reason for the attack. He was taken home after being treated at a physician's office.

RUFFLED CURTAINS
Complete Sets
With 54-in.
Tie Backs
SET
Quaint colored ruffled curtains, always popular with the modern housekeeper, are offered by the hundreds in this sale of specially purchased merchandise.
They are all made of a finer quality of voile, marquisette and plain rayon. The greater part are in white and ivory, trimmed in rose, blue, gold, orchid or green ruffles. A number are in plain drapery colors, to be used either as drapes or curtains. All are 2¼ yards in length.
A Manufacturer's Surplus Stock
The entire lot was purchased at a concession from a well-known maker of better curtains. Included are many styles, in smaller lots of 2 to 6 pairs of each style. A good assortment may be had while the quantity lasts.

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

Edmond Lowe "Farmed Out" To First National For Lead In Colleen Moore's Picture

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.

THE rumors flying thick and fast that the Fox Company is buying a controlling interest in First National seem to gain credence as the days pass. For that reason any negotiations between the two companies will be watched with an eagle eye.

The one deal that has come to my attention concerns the borrowing of Edmund Lowe, Fox lead, to play opposite Colleen Moore in "Tomorrow," her next picture. John McCormick, who did the borrowing, closed the deal Saturday.

Production on "Tomorrow," under the direction of Edmund Goulding, who also wrote the story, will be started almost immediately. Lowe is already planning to move his belongings to First National. It will seem funny to see him there, he seems to belong so definitely to the Fox Company.

Perhaps you didn't know that James Murray, the lad who was discovered by King Vider, had a brother. I don't suppose it would have made much difference if that same brother, Harry, hadn't decided to come into the movies. His brother's meteoric rise is probably what decided him. At any rate, he is playing a very important part in "The House of Scandal," a police story now being produced at Tiffany-Stahl under the direction of King Baggot. Here is another interesting thing about "The House of Scandal!" Dorothy Sebastian has been borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the leading feminine role. Miss Sebastian, I believe, plays the part of a feminine crook. It is all the style now in Hollywood to do crook stories.

There are so many people who best express themselves by giving messages to the world. Mrs. Wallace Reid is one of these. Most of her movies have been preachments, her first a film argument against dope, her second was based on an equally potent subject. Mrs. Reid is at it again, working at the Metropolitan studios on "The Road to Ruin." This one, I understand, has something to do with girls who leave the straight and narrow—a lesson as it were.

I shall be curious to know who will play Lord Nelsch in "The Divine Lady." This part is almost as interesting as that of Lady Hamilton herself. All the romance of Lady Hamilton centers around England's famous naval hero. So far Walter Morosco says no one has been signed to play opposite Corinne Griffith, although a number of Hollywood leading men have been discussed. Marie Dressler will play Miss Griffith's mother, an interesting character as described by E. Barrington in her book, "The Divine Lady."

ABIE AND ROSE STAY OVER

Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose" begins its second and final week in the Pitt tonight. In the cast are Phil White, Ted W. Gibson, Patricia Quinn, Bertha Waldron, Thomas McGrath, Alfred Clarke and Jack McCabe. Thursday and Saturday matinees will be played.

"Honeymoon Lane," starring Eddie Dowling, will be offered at the Nixon, beginning tonight, for one week only. "Honeymoon Lane," it is said, will be presented here with the original Broadway company.

Tomorrow night the Alvin Theater offers "The Student Prince," to remain the rest of the week, with the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. In the cast are Sudworth Fraser, Ilse Marvenga, DeWolf Hopper, Herbert Waterous, Charles Mac, Emmie Niclas and Jayne Herbert.

In the Nixon, for the week of February 20, David Belasco will present Lenore Ulric in "Lulu Belle," which played two seasons in the Belasco Theater, New York.

"Broadway," a drama of New York's night life, which comes to the Pitt for an engagement, beginning Monday night, February 20, is the work of Philip Dunning and George Abbott.

The musical comedy, "Oh, Kay," will begin a week's engagement in the Alvin Monday night, February 20, with Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit as featured players.

One-Eyed Notable Now Actor and Gate Keeper

"One Eyed" Connolly, famed gate-crasher of fights and other big sporting events, is now keeping the unwanted from crashing the outer gate at the Fox Studios in Los Angeles. In view of his broad education on how to get in, he was considered the right ma to keep others out.

Connolly, also called "The Cyclops of Pistiana," is a figure to daunt any but the near-sighted, foolish or decidedly egotistic on their ability to crash a gate. He has a leather awning over his missing optic that plays a prominent role in making him look rsome.

For 30 years he has been engaged in thinking up and executing his gags for free attendance, and it was not until ..fter a long conference with himself that he gave up his "life's work" temporarily. He intends to keep in practice, however, by crushing fight clubs in Los Angeles.

Connolly is also making his screen debut as a convict in "Honor Bound," a Fox picture of prison labor camps in the South. He qualified facially and in experience, having spent much time in jails during his hoboing.

Penn Band Bows On Its Stage This Week

Don Albert, who has been conducting the pit orchestra in the Penn since the theater opened, will be the new stage band leader. The Penn stage band, a new aggregation composed of 24 men, will be a permanent band, with the new and bigger stage units changed each week. Mr. Albert came to Pittsburgh from the Loew house in St. Louis where he was for three years. The new band and policy is in effect this week, the stage unit being "Tokio Blues."

PADEREWSKI COMES FOR TUESDAY CONCERT

Paderewski, Polish pianist, will be in Pittsburgh tomorrow for a concert in Syria Mosque tomorrow evening. Mr. Paderewski, accompanied by Mme. Paderewski, arrives today on his private car, on which he lives during his tour. The major work on tomorrow night's program will be Beethoven's Sonata in C-sharp minor, Opus 27, No. 2. Schumann, Schubert-Liszt and Paderewski are other composers represented on the program.

LOCAL MAN HAD GAS ON STOMACH

Suffered Seven Years; Says "Ten Herbs Made Life Worth Living."

"I suffered with my stomach for seven years," was the statement of Mr. Alan T. Munroe, 607 W. Diamond Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the popular new herbal compound, Ten Herbs. "Food would not digest properly, but would form gas on my stomach, and cause great distress," Mr. Munroe continued. "I feared going to bed at night as I would often suffer with gas until I would be completely wetnout. Green spots came before my eyes sometimes, and my heart seemed to pound. I was discharged from service (Sgt. R. N. W. M. Police) as physically unfit.

MR. ALAN T. MUNROE

"Ten Herbs made life worth living. It toned up my stomach, and I can eat anything without having any distress afterwards. I am not bothered with gas any more. Ten Herbs not only relieved indigestion, but regulated my bowels and benefited my kidneys. I feel fine now. This wonderful medicine did me so much good that I gladly recommend it to the public."

When you use this celebrated compound, Ten Herbs, and it begins to cleanse your system of the awful accumulations of poisonous waste matter and impurities; when it benefits and invigorates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; when aches and pains throughout the body, biliousness, dizziness, headaches, constipation and other distresses are relieved—then you understand why so many people here, and almost everywhere, look with such favor upon this great natural medicine. Ten Herbs has helped others in this section and why not you?

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

CLASS TEACHER FLAYS SUNDAY SCHOOL HEAD

V. R. Covell, Sunday school superintendent of the South Avenue Methodist Church, Wilkinsburg, was accused of "maladministration" of office by the Rev. Walter Hunter, a retired Methodist Episcopal minister, who yesterday acted as teacher of the Calendar Men's Bible Class of the church. Covell has been the target for much criticism since the ousting of Dr. T. M. Sankey as teacher of the Bible class.

Dr. Hunter was one of several persons proposed by a large majority of the class as teacher, but rejected by Covell and the Rev. W. Bell, pastor. The address of Dr. Hunter crowded off the program the Rev. Jacob S. Payton, district conference superintendent, who had been appointed by Covell to teach the class yesterday.

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Ida May Stewart, 24, of North avenue, Wilkinsburg, suffered a fractured right hip and knee last night when an automobile in which she was a passenger collided with another machine at Braddock and Monongahela avenues, Swissvale. She is in the Braddock General Hospital. Luther Leach of North avenue, Wilkinsburg, and Frederick Wolfle, Jr., of Hawkins avenue, North Braddock, the drivers, were arrested.

AX AND BRICK FIGHT LAND 1 IN HOSPITAL, 3 IN JAIL

A brawl in Glassport yesterday, in which an ax and bricks featured as weapons, sent August Palm, 27, of 735 Peach alley, Glassport, to the McKeesport Hospital, and Edward Palm, 29, a brother of August, and Samuel Mendeszsiana and Tony Masceranis, all of Glassport, to the police station. August suffered lacerations of the head and right hand when struck by the ax. Police have been unable to untangle the conflicting stories of the fight.

Why Every User becomes a Friend

"Never has any other cough medicine acted so quickly and satisfactorily as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound; and it gives complete satisfaction to friends who use it on my recommendation," says J. D. McComb, Toledo, Ohio. It spreads a healing, soothing coating in an irritated inflamed throat, stops coughing, raises phlegm easily. No opiates to cause constipation, no chloroform, no "dope." You take no chances with cough or cold when you buy Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

Wasps That Bore Lead

WOOD wasps, which lay their eggs on the wood of various varieties of fir, are among the most powerful insect borers. They have been known to bore through such metals as sheet lead.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

IS THERE A LIFE AFTER FORTY?

IT WAS bound to come! A member of the Younger Generation has written a scathing book, denouncing the Older Generation as a ridiculous lot of "youth-fakers!"

What is getting on the nerves of the Young Moderns is the shocking childishness and folly of parents in the Flaming Forties who are trying to give life-like imitations of their sons and daughters.

HELEN ROWLAND

It has reached a point where a young girl can't do anything original or startling, but the first thing she knows her mother is "trying it on!" The Flaming Forties are in the saddle, and have the Jazzing Twenties on the run!

Oh, have a heart, Daughter! Just remember that when Mother was sixteen she was all tied up in "verbotens," corset-strings and conventions. Her curving calves and dimpled knees were hidden under a bushel of petticoats; her head was bowed down by a weight of pompadour, and her throat strangled in a wired "choker."

She carried three yards of excess baggage in the form of a trailing skirt, and spent most of her time proving that she was "a lady." She was a whited sepulchre—filled with suppressed desires!

Now she is "EXPRESSING HERSELF" for the first time in her life. She is having her belated "fling!"

Give this little girl a hand!

Be patient and forbearing with her, Daughter. Remember that all she knows of life she learned at YOUR knee! All her wild ways are YOUR ways, and all she knows of rouging, dancing, smoking and petting, YOU taught her!

You can't CONTROL the Older Generation until you set them a better example—or show cause why they are not entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of a little more happiness.

There IS a life after forty! Mother and Father aren't dead, yet!

An old dog may not be able to learn new tricks, but if he has been tied up in the kennel too long he is apt to cut a lot of capers when he is let out. Excuse it, please!

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, February 14

Our real life is yet behind but before us.—Proverb.

THE sidereal operations for this day point to a sudden change, possibly radical and far-reaching by nature, and while there may be petty annoyances and irritations, personal and otherwise, in the long run signal benefits are imminent.

It is a time for grasping opportunities and pushing to the goal.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of important change which should bring expansion of the interests and fulfilled ambitions if the trivialities are properly managed. A child born on this day should be ambitious, adventurous and skillful and should attain to important position in life.

Notable Nativity: Mme. Kemble, prima donna.

Doctors Prescribe

HEMO-LIVER

Quickly Brings Health and Rich, Red Blood to Thin-Blooded, Rundown People.

Hemo-Liver is full of the vital elements or "Mysterious Substance" extracted by an intricate process from fresh beef liver. It is one of the great discoveries of recent years and by taking a tablespoonful three times a day you'll get more and quicker benefit than by eating pounds of liver.

How a man may look when his blood is thin and weak—and the change that takes place when the blood is rich and red.

Every progressive druggist sells Hemo-Liver in a big 12-ounce bottle that will last eight days with the distinct understanding that if one bottle doesn't greatly improve your health the purchase price will be returned.

"Men and women who are suffering from lowered vitality, general weakness, overwork, nervous breakdown or anemia can put their faith in Hemo-Liver. For feeble old people, girls 13 to 18 and in convalescence it won't fail. It strengthens the nerves, increases the red blood cells, promotes health and rebuilds energy so quickly that often physicians are astonished."

Eat more liver and take Hemo-Liver, physicians advise. It is not a patent medicine. Get Hemo-Liver at May Drug Co. Stores.

Can't Beat This For Old Sores

Don't Fail to Try It for Quick Relief—Many Have Been Healed.

For old sores, running sores and ulcers many have been benefited by using Peterson's Ointment.

The first application usually gives soothing relief and cases of long standing have been healed.

A Buffalo woman writes that 15 ulcers on her arm were healed with Peterson's Ointment.

A Chicago woman writes that she had a running sore above her ankle for 18 years and three boxes of Peterson's Ointment healed it.

A Memphis woman writes: "I wish you could have seen my face full of ring-worms and sores. I have used two boxes of Peterson's Ointment and am greatly benefited."

All druggists sell Peterson's Ointment—35 cents a box.

Fay King Tells Why Today's Beauties Loom

THE BEAUTIES OF THOSE DAYS COULD NOT HAVE MARCEL WAVES, TRICK LIGHTING, OR A VEILED CAMERA LENS TO ENHANCE THEIR CHARMS
WHAT A HANDICAP STYLES WERE!
ONCE "A VERY PRETTY AND POPULAR LITTLE 'JIG DANCER.'"
THE FINISHED PICTURE OF A FORCED POSE LIKE THIS HAD MORE WRINKLES IN IT THAN THE PROOFS ONE GETS TODAY!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

ARE the beauties of today more beautiful than the beauties of yesterday?

NO!

Naturally, if you refer to old photographs of famous beauties of other days and compare them with the beautiful portraits of the beauties of today, they will not seem more beautiful by comparison!

And that is one of the main reasons that I consider them more beautiful.

Styles then were atrocious.

Photography was a joke.

They had not the advantage of the many arts and tricks the beauty of today may use to enhance her beauty.

The beauty of the stage and screen today owes much of her beauty to the art of the camera and the flattery of stage lighting.

Consider the poor little cabinet photograph that the beauty of other days depended upon to record her charms. The photographers knew nothing of retouching, diffused lighting, graceful posing.

The back drop of a marble hall and grotesque furniture were the only backgrounds. The proofs from which Milady chooses her pictures today are more retouched and etched down to flattering lines than the finished picture of yesterday ever was.

Today the artist who poses beauties before the camera in his studio has countless tricks of lighting. He appreciates the beauty of graceful, natural poses. He often deprives his subject of the becoming styles of the day and drapes her in the soft, clinging folds of a Spanish shawl.

Shadowy backgrounds are chosen for the facility of blending in with the retouching he will do to mould her figure or profile to even greater perfection.

So I say this is not so much an age of greater beauty as of greater efficiency.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Making a Real Pleasure of Invalidism

JOHN HUNTER once said, "An invalid is one who has to be careful what he eats, drinks and does, but who lives longer than anybody else."

DR. COPELAND

You will laugh when you read this definition, but really there is a lot in it. On several occasions I have told you about a friend of mine who quit work when he was 38 because of poor health. I was one of the pallbearers at his funeral when he died at 90, having done no active work of any sort for 50 years.

There are lots of people in the world who enjoy poor health. They seem to glory in it. They talk about their disabilities, and are never so happy as when they are exchanging experiences of this sort with family and acquaintances.

The fact is that many people live such unhygienic lives and eat such outrageous food that they are more than half invalids all the time. In consequence of their own shortcomings they lack strength, energy and ambition. They are failures in life because of their invalidism.

We are bound to have the greatest sympathy for persons who are really invalids. It may be that heart trouble, or damage due to an accident makes it out of the question for anything but the most inactive sort of life. These people are to be pitied.

On the other hand, there are lots of folks living in the world who pick at the food given them, who are careful about everything in the way of eating, drinking and working, and who appear to be invalids from choice.

Sometimes it takes a lot of character to throw off the symptoms of semi-invalidism and get into the hurly-burly of life. Too many people think they are sick when they are only lazy. Too many people think they need sleep when they really need exercise.

When you so order your life that you get the sleep you need, the recreation necessary to your happiness, the exercise and fresh air essential to your physical welfare and the food required to keep your body in fit condition, you will forget all about being an invalid. You will be ready to take part in the battle of life.

Too often invalidism is a state of mind. The body is perfectly all right, but the mind insists that something is wrong. This leads to improper restriction of the diet or to the adoption of foods which are unsuited to the best interests of health.

Once in a while it is a good thing to take an inventory of health and happiness. Only this morning I had my bed moved nearer to the window. I felt I was not getting air enough at night. It is a good thing to check up on such matters now and then.

No matter what your form of recreation is, if you are not feeling well take an hour a day away from what you are doing and try something else. It may well be that a change of this sort will put new life into your body and bones.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A SMART STYLE FOR WOMEN OF MATURE FIGURE WITH SLENDER HIPS.

Printed silk or velvet, crepe satin or cashmere would be suitable for this stylish design.

The pattern is cut in eight sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 44-inch size will require 4¼ yards of 39-inch material, together with ⅝ yard of contrasting material for facing on collar and tab, cut crosswise. If cut lengthwise 1¼ yards 15 inches wide is required. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 2⅝ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

What's the Answer?

1. Who designed the bronze doors of the Baptistery at Florence, Italy, which Michelangelo said were worthy to be "the gates of Paradise"?
2. At the close of what century did the so-called "Industrial Revolution" begin in England?
3. Which is lighter in weight, a good or a bad egg?
4. Who was Casablanca?
5. What is the next line after "Drink to me only with thine eyes"? From what poem, by what author, are they taken?
6. What federal body has the sole power to try impeachments?
7. Where did the peach originate?
8. Madame de Maintenon is associated with what King of France?
9. What jeweled article contains the largest cut diamond in the world?
10. What is the normal color of mourning in Persia?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to Saturday's questions.

1. "Hanging and wiving go by destiny" is from Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice."
2. Rembrandt usually signed his pictures Rembrandt Van Rijn.
3. Rabindranath Tagore, Hindu writer and poet, was knighted by the British government, but because of his sympathy with the Indian Revolution he later resigned.
4. James Rowland Angell is the president of Yale.
5. "The Colloquia" is the principle work of Desiderius Erasmus.
6. Seth was the third son of Adam.
7. The House of Savoy is a European royal family, the present reigning house of the kingdom of Italy.
8. The Council of Constance was the council which met in 1414, and lasted until 1418, for the purpose of reforming the church and settling disputes concerning doctrine.
9. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born in 1807 and died in 1882.
10. The Roman Catholic Church has a festival on March 17 for St. Patrick.

FOR THE LOVELORN

Unhappy

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am writing to you for the first time and know that you will answer this properly. I am a girl of 19 and have gone with a boy friend two years my senior for five months, when I suddenly took a spell and quit going with him, because of my girl friend saying he didn't have good manners, which I didn't notice myself. I don't smoke, drink or loiter on street corners, like a number of girls do. This fellow didn't dress up-to-date, but all the same I loved him quite a lot in his manner and actions. I would like to regain his friendship, for I see him quite often. Could you tell me how to do so?

UNHAPPY.

Perhaps if you speak and smile to your old friendly fashion when you meet him on the street, he will take the initiative in "making up."

Two Question Marks

DEAR MISS GALE:

We are two girls in our teens, one a senior in high school and the other a sophomore. We are allowed to keep steady company. No. 1 is wildly infatuated with a fellow of a different nationality, and she would like to gain his friendship. He is a junior in high and a popular athlete. The second kept company with a young fellow last year, and for some reason she got to actually hate him. Now she realizes his true worth. How may she regain the affection she so ruthlessly threw aside? Please answer these questions as soon as possible. We agree with you on the petting question and see no use in unnecessarily cuddling the young people of today indulge.

"TWO QUESTION MARKS."

Be pleasant and friendly with this boy, and I am sure he will respond. I am afraid the second girl is fickle, and needs to be very sure of herself before trying to win back this boy's friendship. If he likes her, though, it should be an easy matter.

Polly Anna

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a reader of your column and would like your advice. There is a boy that goes to the same school as I do. He is handsome and very nice. There are two girls that are supposed to be my friends. They both like him, but he does not care for them. Miss Gale, my friends know he likes us a best. One of them has told me that she really loves him, and for her sake I barely speak to him. He acts as if he is hurt, and still he does not pay any attention to them. Should I continue to ignore him or become his friend once more.

POLLY ANNA.

Why in the world should you give up this boy's friendship just because another girl likes him, too. If he is not interested in her, then your actions cannot help mystifying and hurting him.

HE ISN'T CONSTIPATED ANY MORE

Thanks to Kellogg's wonderful ALL-BRAN

Mr. Grinslade wrote, of his own accord, to tell us how much he valued ALL-BRAN in relieving constipation.

June 1, 1927

"Just a few words to let the company know what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has done for me. I was constipated for several years until I went to eating your PEP and ALL-BRAN. I am now rid of constipation and it is all due to the use of your products, and I will recommend it to anyone that is bothered with constipation."

Yours truly,
H. M. GRINSLADE,
1139 Laguna Ave., Los Angeles

Constipation is a dreadful thing. It undermines health. It steals happiness. Throbbing heads, aching backs, spots before the eyes, bad complexions are just a few of its telltale symptoms.

Don't let it get in its deadly work on you. Protect yourself now. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to prevent and relieve constipation. A health cereal—ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Delicious with milk or cream, or with fruit or honey added. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Use in cooking. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

FOR QUALITY
WHITE HOUSE COFFEE and TEA

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, U. S. Senator from New York and Ex-Health Commissioner of New York City, is a recognized national authority on public health.

Dr. Copeland Says:

"Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many cathartic compounds. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. In their effects upon the bowel and its lining membranes they are far less irritating. Indeed, many have qualities that make them soothing and healing. Sugar-coated pills are pleasant to take, which may add to their danger. They are no less habit-forming and drastic because they appeal to the taste."

PLUTO
America's Laxative Water

Pluto Water, with its mineral content, flushes the bowels and washes away impurities. It is gentle, soothing, healing, non-habit-forming. Corrects constipation and restores normal bowel movements. Acts in 30 minutes to 2 hours.

You will prefer it to any other sanitary napkin because:

The gauze has been specially softened by a process possible only to Johnson & Johnson.

The filler material is an entirely new substance—fluffy and soft as down but of amazing absorbency

Rounded, conforming sides do away with chafing and irritation.

A moisture-repellent back makes protection doubly sure.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Holiday Like Valentine's Makes It Easy to Forget Approach of Lent

TO SURRENDER to the austere approach of the Lenten season without one last whirl with gaiety many of the social world find too hard. With a holiday like Valentine's Day here, who couldn't forget that Lent was but a little over a week off?

Many of those of the social world, who have not yet departed to the lands of eternal sunshine, will take keen delight in the fancy dress ball to be held in the Edgeworth Club under the direction of the club committee on Friday evening.

Another pre-Lenten affair will honor one of the city's young brides and her husband, the George Armstrong Kellys. Mrs. Kelly was Agnes Caldwell Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Stewart of Solway street, whose marriage in October I'm sure you will recall.

The young Mrs. Kelly's aunt, Mrs. Remsen V. Messler, of Pembroke place, has sent out cards for a dinner she will give in the Pittsburgh Golf Club Saturday evening.

Entertaining in the social world nowadays is confined, for the most part to small, informal affairs such as bridges and luncheons.

Belonging to events of this kind was the luncheon Mrs. Royal S. Goldsbury gave in her home in Edgeworth Friday. The guest of honor was Mrs. Roger Blair of Philadelphia, who is occupying the home of Mrs. William McC. Dravo.

Mary Oliver, daughter of the Henry Olivers, has just returned from New York and New Haven. While in New Haven she attended the Yale junior prom. Speaking of this important college dance reminds me that John Kennedy Beeson, son of Charles E. Beeson, of Morewood avenue, led the grand march. Carol McDonald of St. Louis was his partner.

The Chalfant sisters, Eleanor and Martha, prominent members of the younger set, and Martha Shields Brooks, daughter of the Frank Faber Brooks, also a popular girl in society circles, expect to go abroad in early April. Eleanor and Martha, as you know, are daughters of the Henry Chalfants, who live in Ridge avenue, North Side.

Dr. DeWitt B. Nettleton and Mrs. Nettleton now spend all their winters at their Pinehurst home. Dr. Nettleton has just returned to the North Carolina resort after a brief stay in the North.

The Alexander Laughlins, after a visit in New York and a brief sojourn in Atlantic City, are expected back, I hear, this week.

At a luncheon given Saturday by Mrs. Sarah E. King, of Thomas boulevard, announcement was made of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Emily Weber King, to Lemuel Bell Wingard, of Pittsburgh. An announcement also was made of the engagement of Miss Evelyn Carlstina Olsen, of South Fairmount avenue, to William Kenneth Campbell, of Pittsburgh. There were 12 guests.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Thelma Sloan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Sloan, of Indiana, Pa., and Glenn O. Raymond, of Edgewood, which was solemnized Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, by the Rev. Dr. W. A. Jones. Miss Louise Dickie, of Indiana, was maid of honor and Andrew Kerr, of Edgewood, best man. After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond will be at home in Pittsburgh.

The senior class of the Ursuline Academy was entertained with a luncheon in McCreery's this afternoon, followed by a theater party.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Homer Baker, of Montana street, Crafton, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Pansy Baker, to Arthur Bernard Langlie, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Alfred Langlie, of Seattle, Wash. The announcement was made at a bridge party given Saturday night by Miss Baker's sister, Mrs. Martin Luther Faust, of Dormont.

The Permas Club of the North Hills will hold its annual reception in the form of a Valentine dance Tuesday night in the Highland Country Club. William G. Thuring is president of the club and O. J. Goettman is chairman for the dance, with T. H. Doehla as vice chairman. William J. Brant is chairman for the time and place; Charles Zoller, refreshments; Herman Welty, dance and music; William Meyer, cards; M. Doehla and John G. Raum, Jr., door, and Dr. L. G. Maier, publicity.

The senior class of the Holy Rosary High School will give a comedy, "Camouflage," accompanying its pre-Lenten concerts Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the high school auditorium. Miss Madeleine Skelly is directing the cast, which includes Anne Mueller, Mary Shiring, Margaret Cornyn, Ray Henry, Regis Denny, Mary Loftis, Mary Murphy, Eleanor Karl, Anna Marie Weaver, Edmund DeLallo and Kenneth Krebs.

The West Liberty Women's Civic Club will have an all-day and evening sewing Thursday in the home of Mrs. George A. Bupt, Lamarido street.

Pennsylvania Chapter No. 194, O. E. S., is to give a card party Wednesday afternoon in Gimbel's. Mrs. Lottie McBride is worthy matron.

Patricia Pitt

D. OF A. R. WILL HEAR WASHINGTON ADDRESS

Thomas Patterson will give an address on George Washington at the Washington's Birthday luncheon which the Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold in the Hotel Schenley February 22. The only other program feature will be music by a trio under the direction of Victor Saudek. The invocation will be by the Rev. Dr. Henry R. Browne. Mrs. Cooke Bausman is in charge of tickets for the affair.

A program has been arranged by Mrs. R. L. Leety for the regular meeting of Chatham Parent-Teacher Association Thursday evening in the school auditorium, Bonvue street, North Side. In observance of the founding of the National Parent-Teacher Association, 31 years ago, the Chatham association will take part in a birthday ceremonial in which the traditional cake and lighting of candles by the members will feature. The subject of the year's study is "Adult Education," and as a phase in that plan, the speaker of the evening, Miss Elizabeth A. Campbell, of the International Institute, will talk on "Immigrant Education." Mrs. Ellsworth Parker is the soloist, with Mrs. M. Homer Siefert as accompanist. At the conclusion of the program, the birthday cake will be cut and served by the social committee, of which Mrs. J. W. Flecker is chairman.

The next social meeting of the South Hills Woman's Club will be sponsored by the committee for the blind on Monday evening, February 27, with Mrs. Selma Thankuch in charge of the program and Mrs. Clara Rowland as social chairman. A sale for the benefit of the blind will be held.

The Glee Club of Pennsylvania College for Women will give a concert in the First Presbyterian Church of Aspinwall Friday evening, the program including college songs as well as other selections. Mildred Parrell and Elizabeth Parter will give a costume duet; Isabel Allen, Jane Edwards and Henrietta Spelsburg will offer vocal solos, and Virginia Seaver a xylophone solo. Another number specially featured will be a duologue from "The College Girl and the Milk Maid," which Sara Cecil and Amelia Lockard will present. Mrs. Mabel Davis Rockwell is director, and Miss Alice Goodell, accompanist.

A meeting of the Bradford Woods Civic Club will be held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Chauncey Lobingier, with Mrs. E. E. Kehew assisting the hostess. A book review by Mrs. Edith B. Maize will form the program.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Allegheny Commandery, No. 35, Knights Templar, elected the following officers at the annual meeting: President, Mrs. Thomas F. Morris; vice presidents, Mrs. T. W. Neely, Mrs. Henrietta A. Nelson, Mrs. H. L. McGouran; secretary, Mrs. M. M. Mason; treasurer, Mrs. William F. Senlich; chaplain, Mrs. W. H. O. Norris; executive board, Mrs. H. A. Becker, Mrs. R. K. MAN, 60, FOUND DYING ON ROAD WITH BROKEN SKULL

An unidentified man, about 60, found last night lying alongside the Lincoln highway at East McKeesport, is in the McKeesport Hospital with a fracture of the skull. It is believed he was walking along the road and was struck by an automobile. There was nothing in his clothing to indicate his identity.

Gardner Lincoln Talks Hushed By Tonsilitis

The voice of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, usually heard each year in tribute to Abraham Lincoln on the Emancipator's birthday, was silent today.

The County Prosecutor is recovering at his home, 312 East Tenth avenue, Tarentum, from a severe attack of tonsilitis. He became ill Saturday. He was to have addressed a patriotic gathering of the American Legion and other organizations at Carnegie tonight.

Old Meadville Bell Tolls Own Death Knell in Victory Peal

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 13.—The dust-covered bell in Bentley Hall on the campus at Allegheny College has sounded its own death knell.

The shock of a basketball victory for Allegheny was too much. After the triumph—the first in a year—students repaired to the belfry, yanked sturdily on the bell rope and were rewarded by a clang. They yanked again and were rewarded by the unmusical crash of a section of the bell falling against the wooden boards of good old Bentley Hall.

There is no joy today in Meadville.

SAY MOTORMAN WAS DRUNK

Accused of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, Stephen Barrett, 32, of 260 Emerson street, motorman of a one-man street car, will be arraigned in Traffic Court tomorrow. Barrett was arrested at 8 o'clock last night at Penn and Franks-town avenues. A city physician who examined Barrett, after his arrest, pronounced him intoxicated.

'SNIPER' ADDS 26TH VICTIM

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 13.—The "Phantom Sniper," terrorizer of autoists, added another victim to his fast growing list by smashing the rear window of an auto driven by Joseph Cairone. As usual the window was smashed by a mysterious missile.

The attack, twenty-sixth of its kind since Thanksgiving, took place in South Camden.

3 DIE, 23 SAVED AS NAVAL TUG HITS ROCK

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—(INS.)—Naval craft and a seaplane combed Massachusetts Bay off Nantasket Beach today in an unsuccessful hunt for three sailors missing as the result of the grounding of the United States naval tug Mohave on the rocks of Harding Ledge, east of Point Allerton, Hull.

Twenty-three other naval men were saved when the navy tug was wrecked and some of them were in a serious condition today.

Meanwhile naval officials at Charlestown navy yard were trying to determine why the Mohave was so far off her course at the time of the grounding.

The three men, believed dead, whose bodies have not been found on the sea or by patrols on the beach, are W. J. Enos, A. T. Lilcs and C. H. Reed.

SEEK 'HIT-RUN' MOTORIST IN MAN'S DEATH

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 13.—Charles Cole, 54, formerly of McKees Rocks, where members of his family reside, died in the Washington Hospital, here yesterday from injuries suffered Saturday night when he was run down by a "hit and run" automobile driver.

Cole was walking from this city to the J. R. Taylor farm, north of here, where he had been employed. His skull and jaw were fractured and his chest crushed. The driver of a bus on the Pittsburgh and Washington line found Cole in the road and took him to the hospital.

Authorities are investigating, but have been unable to find any trace of the driver whose car killed Cole.

Three sons and a daughter reside in McKees Rocks.

WOMEN'S CLUBS OPPOSE LURID CRIME NEWS

The Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs, representing 62 organizations and about 20,000 women, at its annual meeting in Pittsburgh last month adopted a resolution protesting the sensational treatment of news in the daily papers. The resolution, a copy of which has been sent to the editor of The Sun-Telegraph, follows:

Whereas, it is the policy of our newspapers to publish in a sensational manner the news of the commission of crimes, together with photographs and pictures of the criminals, place of crime, and matters pertaining thereto, and

Whereas, this is an appeal directed wholly to the emotions of the masses and is its results detrimental and prejudicial to the best interests of the community in that it is not reading material for children or adults, and has an evil effect upon the morbid-minded, and

Whereas, the effect of such news is undoubtedly increasing crime; therefore,

Be it resolved, that the women of the Federation of Women's Clubs of Allegheny County protest against this practice upon the part of the editors and publishers of our great newspapers, and request their co-operation in eliminating, so far as possible, this type of news, replacing it with news items directed to the intelligence, such as items pertaining to international relations, national, state and local politics and events and other items not morbid in their effect.

PROTEST "MANNER"

Mrs. Richard B. Perry, president of the County Federation, discussing the resolution, said:

"I would like to qualify the resolution. We club women realize that crime is news and, as such, must be printed. We are protesting merely the sensational manner in which it is handled, for we feel that it is not good for the community at large and especially for the adolescent mind. We appreciate the fact that the great American newspaper contains a mine of valuable information and that such things as 'Letters of Woodrow Wilson,' Lindbergh's 'We' and Dr. Dorsey's 'Why We Behave Like Human Beings,' which The Sun-Telegraph has been and is printing, are of inestimable worth, but our only way to let the publishers know that we disapprove of sensationalism in our newspapers was to pass the resolution, and we did it, not in a spirit of criticism, but of friendly co-operation. We want our local papers to be the best there are in the country and we want to be able to find in them everything we need in the way of international and national events, treated sanely and in a dignified manner."

SKULL BROKEN IN ROBBERY

Robbed and beaten by two armed Negroes invading his home at 241 Oakdale street, Ross township, last night, Nick Lyfit, 72, is in the St. John's Hospital suffering from a probable skull fracture. After knocking the aged man unconscious the robbers stole $21.

According to Chief Vernon P. Moses, of the township police, Lyfit was alone in the house when the robbers entered. He attempted to defend himself, but was quickly subdued. He told police that he recognized one of the thugs as a former employe.

12 OF 51 IN PIT FIRE SAVED

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 13.—(AP.)—The work of bringing bodies of the victims from the burning Hollinger gold mine continued today with hope abandoned that any of the missing miners would be found alive.

Early today 14 bodies had been brought to the surface and reports at the shaft head were that the bodies of the 25 other missing men had been located. Twelve of the 51 miners imprisoned Friday had been rescued.

It was officially announced that the fire, which had been burning on the 550-foot level since Friday morning, was under control. The workers continued to pour water on the blazing debris and the mine passages were being blocked with heavy canvas screens and the smoke and gas cleared from each section in turn.

High praise was given the United States Bureau of Mines rescue crew from Pittsburgh, Pa., the United States workers being given major credit for recovery of the bodies and control of the fire.

Crocodiles and Snakes Cry More Than Humans—External Ears Degenerate

In the introductory chapter of George A. Dorsey's absorbingly interesting "Why We Behave Like Human Beings" in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph yesterday, procreation was explained and the earlier development of the embryo was described. It is desirable that one read that chapter in order that the following installments of the story of the human being be comprehended in all its enlightening details.

Lose a Third of Your Skin and Die

By GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH.D., LL.D.

CHAPTER II.

WE NO longer tell friends from enemies by smell; but we often pick them by the shape of their nose. Man's nose is not so striking as the elephant's, or even the long-nosed monkey's, but it features his face and is one of his most human and superfluous elements. As it is a new acquisition—it began with mammals—it appears late in fetal life and develops fully only after birth. Its shape and size are hereditary and are distinguishing traits of race. But it has no more to do with brain power than the handkerchief that wipes it.

GEORGE A. DORSEY

As the olfactory nerves alone are connected with the hemispheres of the human brain, it is inferred that the brain itself arose in connection with the sense of smell; the original brain was a smelling organ.

In mammals generally, the smell sense is the most highly developed of all senses. In monkeys it has already begun to diminish. Some mammals have five pairs of ridges supporting the olfactory organs; some hoofed animals have eight; apes usually have three. Man has from two to five pairs.

The nose in the human embryo is at first a pair of pits or pockets in the skin—the condition in fishes. The external nose appears much later.

Man's reptilian ancestors had a supplementary smell organ between roof of mouth and floor of nose. With this they could sample odors while eating without having to sniff. We—in common with other mammals—have its vestige in our Jacobson's organ.

Degeneracy of Ears

The ear also begins as a pocket, in the first gill-cleft. This sinks into the head until its outer opening is closed by the tympanum or eardrum. A rare anomaly is an individual with two, or even three, external ear openings; these represent the second and third gill-clefts. In some fishes the opening remains; their ear is primarily a balancing organ. Our equilibrium sense organ is also located in the inner ear; if our semilunar canals are destroyed we cannot balance ourselves.

We turn our head toward sounds or cup our hands behind our ears; our ancestors turned their ears. We have vestiges of ear muscles, as do apes. Our external ears are also degenerate, as are those of the orang and gorilla. Some ears are small and lie tight against the head, as in the orang; some are large and stand out, as do those of the chimpanzee.

At the eighth-month the rim or helix of the fetal ear begins to fold in—an additional sign of degeneracy. But the tip persists and generally may be felt, often may be seen, near the middle of the infolded helix. It is called Darwin's point; Darwin pointed out its vestigial character.

The lobe, or soft lower part, of the ear generally appears at the sixth month of fetal life, is found in no animals below apes, and in man has no known use other than support for ornament. It is said to be larger in women than in men; it may be absent in either sex.

Eyes and Skin

Our eyes are compound and are made up of the same three parts that are found in fishes' eyes. First, a cluster of skin-cells dig in to form the lens; skin grows over this, becomes transparent, and forms the cornea. Next, a growth from the neural tube reaches out and ends in a cup around the lens. This cup becomes the retina; the stalk which joins cup with tube, the optic nerve. Cells from the middle germ-layer now enter the cup and form ball. The middle layer also supplies skin structure, it is subject to the horny change of old age. Hence "cataract" of the eye: the lens has become covered with a scale.

The Asiatic's eye is not oblique. The "slit" appearance is due to the low nasal bridge supporting the upper lid; the lid thus folds and appears "Mongolian." This "oblique" eye is not uncommon in white children at birth; when the bridge develops slowly it may persist for months, even into adult life.

The tears which wash our eyes—otherwise as dirty as our faces—come from lachrymal glands in the upper, outer corner of each eye. Some have additional tear glands at the sides of the eyes, as have reptiles.

Our skin is a double structure. The outside, or epidermis, is ectoderm; the inside, or dermis, is derived from the mesoderm. The fetal skin at first is translucent and not unlike that of fishes. During the third month, the epidermis begins to become horny, as it is in adult life. It is significant that if we lose a third of our skin—by fire, acid, boiling liquid or flaying—we lose our life.

The Scheme of Hair

Color of skin is an inherited trait and is due to grains of brown or yellow-red pigment in the dermis. Entire absence of pigment in skin, hair and eyes is a developmental defect and results in albinos. Albinism is an inherited trait and is found in many animals. White blackbirds are as common as white black men. Pigment is probably due to secretion of an endocrine gland.

To form a better grasping surface, the skin of man's, monkeys' and many other mammals' hands and feet is thrown into minute ridges, especially prominent on the finger tips. These ridges form loops, spirals and arches. In no two individuals on earth do they make exactly the same pattern. Hence their unique importance as marks of identification.

At the fourth month, the embryo begins to show a fine silky hair coat or lanugo (down). This begins to be replaced, even before birth, by a second coat of different character. The lanugo may persist as "down" on the face of girls and women, or even all over the body, as on the so-called dog faced people of the menageries. The lanugo probably represents our adult ancestral condition. But no satisfactory theory has yet been advanced to account for the fact that man is the least hairy of the primates.

Hair does not grow on our bodies in haphazard fashion, but in lines and sets of three, four or five, each set being the hairs that grew beneath one scale of our reptilian ancestors.

(Copyright, 1928, by George A. Dorsey.)

SEARCH FOR DEPUTIES AND PRISONERS FAILS

MYSTERY CLOUDS FATE

By International News Service.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 13.—Despite an intensive search that has been extended into three adjoining states, the fate of four men, two deputy sheriffs and two prisoners, who left here last Tuesday morning for Pendleton State Reformatory, was still clouded in mystery today.

The men who so strangely dropped from sight are John P. Grove and Wallace McClure of Lafayette, deputy sheriffs, and Sam Baxter and John Burns, prisoners. Grove and McClure have not been seen since they left here Tuesday morning in Grove's automobile with the two convicts, bound for the Pendleton Reformatory.

Baxter and Burns, the prisoners, were reported seen Tuesday noon at Danville, Ill., six hours after they had left Lafayette with the deputy sheriffs. Authorities are now seeking the convicts on the theory that they murdered their guards and escaped.

Hundreds of private citizens who volunteered their services have been aiding police and sheriff's posses in searching the country over which the automobile party is supposed to have gone. No trace of the men nor the automobile has been found.

PROPOSED PITT GIFT INDORSED

A plan to contribute $50,000 to the University of Pittsburgh toward the establishment of a "Czecho-Slovakian" room in the Cathedral of Learning, where traditions of the homeland may be perpetuated, was indorsed by 2,000 Czecho-Slovakians at a meeting yesterday in Memorial Hall.

The speakers were Dean Grover H. Alderman of the school of education, University of Pittsburgh; Dr. John Papanek, of the Czecho-Slovakian legation, Washington, and Edward O. Tabor. A committee was appointed to work out the plan.

MAN, WIFE FIGHT DUEL WITH KNIVES IN HOME

A knife duel was fought, police report, by Fletcher Rezar, 30, and his wife Louise, 27, Negroes, in their home at 1304 Reedsdale street last night, and as a result the two are confined in Allegheny General Hospital with several wounds each. It required 31 stitches to close the woman's wounds and 28 the man's. Suspicious person charges were lodged against the pair by Patrolman Frank Krouczkowski who was called to their home.

SET DATES FOR FUND DRIVE OF BOYS' CLUB

A drive to raise $200,000 to provide new quarters for the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh, will open on March 5, in the form of a quiet solicitation among industrial concerns and business houses. The public will be given an opportunity to contribute the week of April 9. Alfred P. Brill, president of the club will be in charge of the drive.

AIDED HILL'S ALIBI

ALICE SAWYER

The principal witness in the trial of Harry Hill, her sweetheart, being tried for matricide, at Ottowa, Ill., Miss Alice Sawyer, aided Hill's alibi. She told of swimming parties, going with him to a carnival and a theater, at the time when the state claims his mother was slain.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

CAME the dawn, and the former employe of the Schenley Hotel diningroom packed his grip and said farewell to his co-workers. For quite a while this employe, a Mr. Bohney, had been showing fellow-workers the pictures of Billie Dove, famed cinema star, with the proud exclamation: "Billie Dove is my daughter."

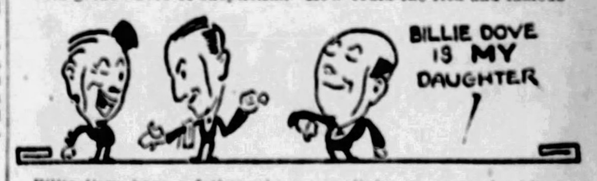
THE story he told was in a way so fantastic that his fellow-workers among the waiters and bellboys simulated belief as he told it, but after he had moved away they were flooded with great waves of skepticism. How could the rich and famous



Billie Dove have a father who was a dining room employe in a Pittsburgh hotel. "No," concluded the help, "such things happen in the movies but in real life—well, it's pretty hard to believe."

THIS department got wind of the story through a letter submitted by a correspondent. The dining room employe at the Schenley who said he was the father of Billie Dove, ran the letter, confided he had not been home for a long while. It appeared that he had left home a long while ago to achieve a fortune which never came. While he was thus absent from the hearthside, a daughter rose to great fame as a clever performer on the silver sheet. Often, this man with the strange story would say how his daughter was anxious to have him go back home, but somehow he always put off returning. But a couple of weeks ago he left Pittsburgh for California.

WITH the letter of information we called Edward Coll, manager of the Schenley, and asked him what he knew of this romance of the long-absent father and the famous daughter. He verified the information that Bohney said he was Billie Dove's father, but he shared the skepticism of other Schenley employes.

IT WAS in such form that we first wrote the story, when a superior wit suggested: "Why not wire California and see if we can get any information?" So Mr. Will Lewis sent a telegram to Miss Louella O. Parsons, cinema writer, in Los Angeles, whose stories about the celluloid world appear in this paper from time to time. (Miss Parsons is very good, too).

CAME then a telegram from Miss Parsons which read: "Billie Dove's father, Bohney, visiting her here. May make his home here."

So the story told by the dining room employe of the Schenley, fantastic as it seemed; his departure from here; his name, and his arrival at the home of Billie Dove, all fitted so neatly that now the former skeptics at the Schenley will likely be converted.

THE story could have been better, of course. The Fates might have brought Billie Dove to Pittsburgh to film a scene, cause her to stop at the Schenley, and then one evening, as she looked up from a table in the dining room, have her say: "I'll have some lamb chops well done, a salad, boiled potatoes, and, waiter," as she looks up, "Why, father." "Billie, my girl, I wondered if you'd recognise me."

BUT one can't ask for too much in a prosaic life. It is sufficient that we find a daughter grown famous insisting that a long-absent father return home to share in her fame and fortune.

A photographer has just read the story. "Too bad it came after he left town," said the photographer. Then he was thinking out loud such captions: "Cinema Star's Father at Work in Local Hotel." "Billie Dove's Father Packing Up to Visit Famous Daughter." "Waving Good-by from Pullman Steps," "Off for Hollywood."

Will Says Senate Resolutions Are Idle Chatter

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 13.—Talk about me even joking about our President. While here the dignified United States Senate went clear out of its way to take an unnecessary slap at him with a resolution that he shouldn't run again. Now off hand you would think that a Senate resolution meant something, but they carry no more authority than a chamber of commerce one does. The Senate voted that Coolidge shouldn't run again, but that each one of them were eligible. They wanted to show that the country was not entirely destitute of great men and that there was 96 men that could improve on Cal at any minute.

CLAIM THEFT RING BROKEN

Two men whom Homestead police say they believe are the heads of a theft ring operating between Homestead and several Ohio towns, were arrested yesterday in a raid on a residence in Heisel street, where police say they recovered a stolen automobile, loot valued at $1,600 and confiscated a quantity of Mexican "loco weed."

James Pappas, 32, alias James Zaharies, whose home was raided, and Thomas Pollitis, 38, of Walnut street, McKeesport, are the alleged leaders of the gang. Four men and three women found in the house also were arrested.

ARREST FIVE IN RAID ON NORTH SIDE STORE

Five persons were arrested and a quantity of wine and whisky was confiscated by North Side police who interrupted a party being staged in a confectionery store in East Ohio street yesterday. Mike Zupic, alleged proprietor of the store was charged with keeping a disorderly house and the four others were charged with visiting a disorderly house.

Lily Learns That Her Father Has Lost His Money

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. She marries Pat. Lily tried, and their domstic ship sailed smoother for a few months. One day Lily met SUE CAIN, an old friend, on the street. Sue invited her to a card party. Lily, without funds, went to a store and tried to charge some clothes to her father. She was informed her mother had left word that "Mrs. Patrick France could not charge things to Mr. Lexington." Drummond pays all her bills, she leaves Pat and goes back to her old friends at home. She takes up her old life but still is not satisfied. She decides to go back to Pat but he sends her trunk to her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE might have been a spoiled little girl once more, begging for the toys and candy that she wanted in those long-ago days of her spoiled childhood, just as she was begging now for a home for herself and Pat here in her father's big, comfortable house.

Mrs. Lexington shook her head. "Come into the room and shut the door," she said. "I want to tell you something.

Lily obeyed her.

Then she dropped down into a flowered silk chair, just inside the room, beside the painted door, and waited for her mother to go on.

After a second she did. "You know, Lily," she said, "that your father has not been well, and that is why we went away. But you don't know just how serious things are with us. Didn't it strike you as odd that I would have a servant like Hester Belle here to look after the house while your father and I were away?"

Lily nodded. She never had seen a slattern like Hester Belle in her mother's house before. The household help had always been clean and up to date, and far above the average servant.

"Well, I hired her because I could get her for $10 a week," her mother enlightened her.

"Ten dollars looks like a lot of money to these days. You see, your father has lost practically everything he has in the world, and when he went away he was in a terrible state. Just this side of being insane with worry, besides being so run down physically that he was fit for the hospital. And then you come home to me and suggest that we take you and that good-for-nothing you've married into the house."

She threw up her hands. "We've got to sell the house," she said. "We've got to take a little flat somewhere and try to get together some savings to take the place of what your father has lost on the stock market, that's what we've got to do. And it would be a lot easier to do it if we knew that you were well taken care of. That's why I hoped that you and Staley would make up your differences, and that you would get rid of that taxi driver." She shook her big, handsome head in scorn of him.

Lily jumped up. "Well, I'm sorry, mother," she answered, opening the door again, and shoving her suit case into the hall with her foot, "but I know Dad will make plenty of money again. He always has. Anyway, I'm going back to Pat. I'm lonesome for him. Good-by."

She thought over what her mother had told her all the way back to Pat's little flat of course. It must be a blow to her and her father to lose a lot of money and have to sell their house and go to live in a cheaper place for a while until they got on their feet again.

"But I can't feel so terribly sorry for them," she said to herself, "for they'll never have to live on nothing a week the way I've had to live—and mother will still have her own car and her diamonds and her good clothes and furniture. They'll never have to live in a dump like this."

She looked around her at the little street in disgust. At the cheap little apartment houses that lined it. And were filled with cheap little families—cheap from Lily's point of view at any rate.

All during the months she had lived among them she had noticed, with distain, their ready-made clothes, their cheap little automobiles in which they went for long Sunday drives, their children who played on the streets, their ordinary household pets—nondescript little cheerful dogs and cats.

"Nothing but Pat could ever make me live among such people and in such a place," she told herself, opening the door of the apartment where she had lived for so many months and stepping into the vestibule.

It always smelled of boiled cabbage and fried onions, somehow. It did tonight, but Lily did not notice it and turned up her nose as she usually did.

She noticed nothing but the card with Pat's name upon it, stuck up above the door bell. It was one of her old calling cards with her married name engraved upon it—"Mrs. Pat France"—and represented one of the few extravagances of her early married life.

Pat had crossed out her name and scrawled his own upon it in pencil. He still lived here then.

Lily pulled the card out from his place and crumpled it up in her hand. She hunted through her purse and found a clean fresh one and tucked it behind the bell.

She wondered what state she would find the apartment in. As she went slowly up the stairs,—fishing in her bag for the front door key as she went. It would be pretty sloppy, she decided, for Pat would not have had much time to spend on it, with all his other duties to attend to.

"I'll clean it all up and surprise him when he comes home tonight," she went on thinking, fitting the key into the lock, "and I'll just refuse to leave it even if he quarrels with me. I can't live without him. Why should I?—If I'm willing to stand for his poverty he ought to be able to forgive me what I did."

She opened the door and stepped back in amazement. For Pat was there ahead of her—and such a Pat. A Pat she never had seen before. A very well-dressed and well-groomed Pat in a light gray suit and blue shirt and collar. He was standing near the window, with his back to the fast-fading light, looking down at a newspaper opened on the table before him—the very table upon which he had found Lily's watch that Christmas eve more than a month ago. He looked up as she came in, and frowned as if her coming either puzzled or annoyed him extremely. His hands were in his pockets and he did not take them out. He just stood and looked at her.

Lily smiled at him. She was sure he was going to take her back—in the long run didn't she usually get what she wanted? All she would have to do was to plead and to coax and to get her arms around him. After that she knew he would be wax in her hands.

He always was when she was the least bit tender and affectionate.

"Well, here I am," she said and closed the door behind her. "I've come to say that I'm not going away from you again whether you try to send me or not, Pat. After all, I'm your wife and I put up with a lot while I was living with you, and if you can't forgive me for seeing Staley Drummond a couple of times just to get some money or a good luncheon from him, you're very narrow-minded. Anyway, I've come home."

He nodded. "I figured you'd be back. But not so soon as this," he said bitterly. "I thought you'd wait until printers' ink was dry on the papers at any rate."

His eyes dropped once more to the newspaper he had been reading when she opened the door, and hers followed them.

"What is it?" she asked. "Something about you? What are you doing—filing divorce papers or something like that?"

She stepped close to him and there on the printed page was his photograph.

She stared at it in amazement.

The page was a special automobile page—advertising the automobile show that was being held in town that week, and the story printed below Pat's picture told all about the new and simple piston ring that he had invented, and about the small fortune that he had been offered for the patent.

Lily gasped. "Oh, you thought I was making up with you because I had seen this."

Pat nodded. "I know that's why you're trying to make up—there's no thinking about it. I know. I know you never would have come back to me if you had not seen it. I know you, and know you are here now because you think the ring is launched at last and is going to make a lot of money. Well, so it is—but not for you, darling. I'm through with you." His mouth twisted with sarcasm.

Lily's heart seemed to swell as if it would burst.

"Oh, Pat," she said, shaking her head mournfully. "That's not fair of you, I never saw that piece in the paper. I came back because I love you—" her voice broke.

Pat laughed. "Yeah, you love me like ice," he said positively. "You don't love anybody but yourself, and you don't love anybody but money, Lily. And now that you think I'm going to have it, you're right back here to get your half. Well, you aren't going to get it. If you want money, you can get Staley Drummond to write you another check."

So he had found out about the check that Staley had written for the Angoulême shop. Florence, little sneak, had told him about it.

CHAPTER LI.

THERE never was anyone more simply honest than Pat France.

He was one of those plain blunt people who almost always tell the truth for the plain and simple reason that it never occurs to them to tell anything else.

And because he was like that he let Lily have the truth now.

"If you've really come here to try to patch things up with me," he said, "it's no use. I'd never let you come back—you spoiled every chance of our ever living together in any kind of happiness when you let Drummond buy you clothes and things. Even those furs that you had here that night you got from him. I'll bet a hat—no, we're through, you and I. There isn't even any use in talking it all over. It was just hopeless from the start, and it's still hopeless."

His blue eyes looked their honesty and sincerity at her. He meant every word that he said. She couldn't look at him without seeing that. There was that quiet determination of his in the very set of his jaw.

"You told me you wouldn't mind being poor," he said to her, "and you did mind it—you hated it and kicked out it from the very day you got married—"

"But just try me again," Lily broke in. "Pat, my father has lost a lot of money lately, and he and my mother are going to be poor, too, for a long time. So it won't be any worse living with you, even if the piston ring doesn't sell, than it would be with them. And, anyway, I can't get along without you. Oh, dear—" Her voice ended on a sigh.

She saw that it was hopeless to go on pleading with him. His face was as grim and determined as a face can be, and his eyes looked at her as if she had been a perfect stranger to him. And a most dull and uninteresting stranger, at that.

"Pat, you don't like me any more, do you?" she asked him, and while her question seemed to hang, trembling, in the air, a door somewhere in the back of the flat squeaked as it was opened.

Eleanor Poised for Battle With Mary, Jackson Being Invited to Dinner

PURPOSELY I had answered Mrs. Townsend's sally with similar lightness in order to give myself time to decide what to do with the opening she had given me. She had left the way clear for me to invite young Mr. Jackson to dinner upon the coming Saturday night, but I was not at all sure that I wished to do so.

In the first place, even though he had been socially sponsored by so impeccable an authority as Townsend, he was a stranger to me and to our household. I knew that taking his loneliness in a strange community as my excuse, I would be justified in extending him the informal invitation, but my early training and the tradition of our home hesitated at thus introducing a stranger into our circle.

In the second place, I had a queer little feeling that such an action would precipitate consequences upon me which I might not be able to manage. Mary Harrison and Noel Veritzen had uttered nothing save the most perfunctory of commonplaces during our call, but I had not been blind to the furtively admiring glances which young Jackson and Mary were exchanging, nor Noel Veritzen's bewildered glowering at the young stranger.

Then my glance happened to fall upon Eleanor Lincoln, to whose courage and self-control the name of Philip Veritzen apparently had given a distinct fillip. As if the mention of the father had brought the son to her attention despite the oddly disturbing chatter of Mrs. Townsend, she was looking at Noel Veritzen with the almost predatory and possessive gaze which she had given him ever since their first meeting. It was a look which proclaimed haughtily that the young man was mightily favored in attracting her attention, and that she meant to brook no rivalry while she was deciding what to do with him. It was exactly the sort of look which a petted and arrogant child might bestow upon some glittering mechanical toy the wheels of which he desired to see "go round."

I made a sudden swift decision. The triangle of Eleanor, Noel and Mary should become a quartet by the addition of Mr. George Logan Jackson, but always under my own careful watchfulness. Not that my sober common sense approved my decision. If I could have eliminated Eleanor Lincoln from our lives, I never should have given a second of consideration to young Mr. Jackson. But by Dicky's express wish, Miss Lincoln not only was to be invited to the dinner, but to be made to feel at home in our family circle. I felt much as if Dicky had asked me to put a box of explosives upon the library table and touch a match to it. That young Jackson had known her before I was certain, and I had an odd psychic little conviction that he had some sort of control over her which he would exercise if he needed to do so.

With a smile I turned to him.

"I wonder if you would excuse so abrupt and informal an invitation and also dine with us on Saturday?" I asked.

Out of the corner of my eye I was watching Eleanor Lincoln's face, and saw an uneasy look pass over it. That the proposition I had made was for some reason distasteful to her I could see.

Young Jackson saw the look also. His eyes had followed mine to her face. But it did not disconcert him in the least. He turned to me with a most charming low bow.

"I can think of nothing more delightful than to dine with you," he said.

But even as he spoke, his eyes traveled from my face to Mary's and I knew that his "you" was meant for her

Plaid Sports Hats

Frugality and fashion seldom go together, so the Scotch tweed plaided felt hats represent an extravagant sports whim that no economical Scotchwoman can be expected to approve. Small, turn-down brims, and crowns with tiny pin tucks, are developed in many attractive style varieties. Solid-tone belting ribbon bands, with side bow, are the only trimming seen on these snappy little models.

CHAMP KEEPS TITLE

DETROIT, Feb. 13.—(INS.)—Elsie Muller retained her title as National indoor skating champion, when she made a clean sweep of the four women's title events skated here, taking the women's mile final in 3:41 2-5. Loretta Neitzel, by finishing second, was third high point winner of the meet, Olga Fisher taking second place with 60.

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

Said John McGraw
To Burleigh Grimes,
"I wish you health
And pleasant times."
"The same to you—
Guess that's a draw,"
Said Burleigh Grimes
To John McGraw.

IT WAS in the middle of the 1916 season that Burleigh Grimes, a powerful boy of Wisconsin, joined the Pirates. Burleigh had been doing big things for the Birmingham club of the Southern Association. His work during the remainder of that year warranted his retention and he was a prominent member of the staff in 1917, despite the losing of 13 games in succession.

JIMMY CALLAHAN was manager of the club through all of 1916, but in the middle of the 1917 race he was replaced by Hugo Bezdek, who was in charge of the Bucos when the Pirate officials negotiated a trade with the Brooklyn team, the swap sending Grimes, Al Mamaux and Chuck Ward to the Dodgers in return for George Cutshaw and Casey Stengel.

CALLAHAN'S team of 1917 was one of the most ineffective that has represented the city since Barney Dreyfuss bought his local franchise. The club was a distinctive second division entry that performed much after the manner of consistent cellar champs. All of which made the pitching job anything but an easy task.

GRIMES' willingness to work and his aggresive spirit was manifest even as he was being taken for 13 in a row. At one stage of the race Burleigh suffered a damaged finger. He was seated on the bench one afternoon with his hand getting a needed rest when the opposition began to bombard the Pittsburgh pitchers. Callahan had just about used up every available man and he was in a panic as the last relief man failed to check the onslaught. Grimes, seeing the seriousness of the situation, grabbed a ball, and after loosening up a bit, ran to the mound. Callahan later commended him for the spirit shown.

BURLEIGH'S pugnacious traits have been much in the foreground. Grimes does not drink intoxicants, but he is as far removed from the molly-coddle class as Gene Tunney. In his big league career, Burleigh has tangled with some tough fellows and many others who were just as tough lost to Grimes by default. In other words, they used enough discretion to prevent a tussle with the Wisconsin wildcat.

THIS article is not intended to uphold these ultra-fighting twists of Grimes, yet it is a fact that Burleigh does not hold bitterness. Grimes and Hugo Bezdek staged a terrific combat on a Pullman car one night. After the fight was over, Grimes apologized to his manager, and Hugo, not to be outdone, sent Burleigh to the slab the next afternoon when others wanted him disciplined.

IVAN OLSON was a bad hombre in a fight, but the scrappy Swede, 'tis said, did not hanker for any extended brawl with Burleigh after the latter had decided that a fight was the best way out. Grimes apparently tried to avoid a meeting with Ivan for a spell. Eventually, he lost his patience, but there was no battle.

ALL of which may have little part in winning ball games. But Burleigh has been a top-notch performer for many seasons. Four times in his career he won as many as 20 games, and last season he reeled off 13 victories in a row for McGraw, after getting away to a very bad start.

GRIMES had no criticism of McGraw or the Giants as he talked on the trade. The spitball star has much respect for McGraw as a leader. It may be that salary considerations are concerned in the trade. On the other hand, the Giants will have to pay Vic Aldridge almost as much as they

City Awaits Irish Quint

By JESS CARVER.

MY, HOW rough the sea was Saturday night. It was so rough, in spots at least, that two or three of the boys were pitched overboard and others given first class scares.

But every cloud has a silver lining, or at least nickle plate, and the defeats that caused some to wring their hands and knash their teeth brought great joy to others. Allegheny and West Virginia Wesleyan pulled out of the victoryless class into the sunshine by taking unexpected but never-the-less splendid victories over Wash-Jeff and Bethany. Carnegie Tech gave fine evidence of awakening power by pressing Deutchland Uber Alles Hermann's Penn State team here and Davis-Elkins caused quite a stir in West Virginia by defeating the Mountaineers at Morgantown. It was the second walloping of the season for as good a team as West Virginia has had for some moons.

Wash-Jeff cracked wide open in the first road trip of the year, losing to both Allegheny and Grove City. The Presidents have now secured an even break in the six games played to date. They will be lucky to keep that pace up for the remainder of the season.

STATE TEAMS PLEASE

Pittsburgh said a sorrowful farewell to Penn State. This city likes to see Lion teams come here—be it in football, basketball or track season. They are gentlemen, those boys from State, and so are the coaches. You'll travel a heck of a ways before meeting a combination to beat Burke M. Hermann, known to the boys as "Dutch" and Larry Conover. Even though they find it tough winning here in Pittsburgh, they make things interesting.

Tonight an important Conference battle is on the books. Westminster, after a week's layoff from league play, will invade the thornbest precincts of Waynesburg for a game with Katy Easterday's Yellow Jackets. The Jackets are the disappointing surprise of the season. They have yet to win a Conference game, and have lost to the Dukes and Bethany twice.

They'll have it just as tough with Westminster tonight. A Waynesburg victory will be a complete surprise—for I do not believe that the Jackets have the class to beat Westminster—especially when considering the pace the United Presbyterians are traveling right now.

Pittsburgh's cage program for the week will begin tomorrow, when American University will send its varsity here for a return game with the Dukes. The Dukes won a game from this team while in Washington a couple of weeks ago, and according to Chick Davies, were fortunate in doing so.

Wednesday, both Geneva and Allegheny will be in town, the former meeting Tech and the latter playing Pitt. Tech is looking forward to an initial victory in the game with Geneva. The team showed vast improvement against Penn State, and for the second time in a row outscored their opponents in the second half.

"If we can only win a first half now," says Coach Johnny Irwin, "and keep on going along in the second, we will be winning a ball game one of these days."

AWAIT NOTRE DAME

The big event of the week, of course, will be the invasion of Notre Dame's great team. The Irish play here Friday and Saturday, engaging the Tartans first and Pitt second. Officials at both institutions are busy today polishing up the S. R. O. signs and figuring out the seating capacity of the rafters.

An important Big Four game is booked for Wednesday. West Virginia, smarting under the defeat suffered at the hands of Davis-Elkins Saturday night, plays Wash-Jeff at Washington. This game is hard to figure, though on the form displayed to date, the Mountaineers ought to cop the honors. Last season, after losing the first game at Washington, West Virginia turned on the Presidents in the final game of the season at Morgantown and bumped 'em off and out of the district title, which went to Allegheny by a narrow margin of a few percentage points, despite a defeat at the hands of Pitt in the closing game.

Indian Blanket Big Attraction at St. Moritz

ST MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—A multi-colored Indian blanket which Anders Haugen, American ski-jumping champion, wrapped around his tall figure Sunday, made him a striking figure among the Olympic contestants. Haugen lacked only war paint, some spectators commented, to make him the picture of a real Indian. The mountain air and bleak breezes under a bright sun have given him a thick coating of tan. Several times he has been mistaken for a Sioux or Iroquois.

"A Belgian millionaire was anxious to buy this blanket," Haugen said. "He made three offers today, increasing his bid a thousand francs each offer, but this is my mascot. I couldn't part with it before the Olympic competition.

"I told the Belgian to renew the offer on Sunday, the nineteenth."

Luis Firpo Is Eager To Make Comeback

By ED EAGAN.
Written Expressly for Universal Service.
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service.)

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 13.—In a very smart automobile store on the Calle Calloa Numero 1065 I met the Wild Bull of the Pampas.

He did not look wild any more.

He reminded me of one of those fat old solitary bulls that has been horned out of the herd by the younger bulls. He had a bay window that would make a beer drinker green with envy.

Luis Firpo.

Mr. Firpo has adopted domestic habits and now leads the life of a quiet business man, having the agency for an automobile in Buenos Aires. He married the senorita that was rejected by the United States immigration officials when she posed as his stenographer and married bliss couples itself with the security of a prosperous business. So Mr. Firpo should be happy.

Besides having the agency for a very popular car, Mr. Firpo also has many filling stations in different parts of the Paris-to-the-New World, Buenos Aires. He also has two brothers working for him, so that he will know that if anyone takes money from him it at least will be in the family. He has a fine home and there are many interesting places where he can take Mrs. Firpo. There are the races at Palmero, the wonderful restaurants in the park, many fine automobile roads, bathing beaches to relieve one in the hot summer, theaters galore—in fact, everything that should make a man of means whose mental interests are limited happy.

LUIS NOT HAPPY

As soon as he found out that I represented Universal Service he began to talk about the third-rate ability of the present day crop of heavyweights.

"Do you intend to return to the ring?" I asked him.

"There are no good heavyweights today," he answered, evading my question.

"But do you think you could lick the present crop of contenders who want a match with Gene Tunney?" I queried.

"Why not?" he exclaimed. "I am only 31 years old. I may be a little fat, but in six months I can get that off and get in good shape. Thirty-one is not old for a fighter. Fitzsimmons was not heard of until he was older than that. Look at Dempsey, the man I really licked. Look at him get the money! I knocked him out once, even though the referee forgot to count when he went over the ropes, and I can do it again."

"But what about your prosperous business, wouldn't that go on the rocks if you reassumed your profession as a pugilist?"

"No, I have two brothers working for me, as well as many others that I can trust. My business would continue in good shape."

COULD LEAVE BUSINESS

"But aren't you happy here leading a normal life away from the hard knocks of the ring and the plaudits of the crowd?"

When I said "plaudits of the crowd" I saw a bright light come into his eyes.

"But business is business," he demurred, "and I would like to bring a championship to the Argentine. Then how the people would like me—why I might even become a member of—"

Firpo's voice trailed off and his eyes gleamed as his imagination pictured himself as a member of some select club of Buenos Aires. Evidently Mr. Firpo is not altogether happy.

He still remembers the wild reception he received after his fight with Dempsey. He feels the coldness shown him by the young bloods of the Argentine. These say that he is no sport because he is blessed with a body that should bring the boxing championship to the Argentine and is too lazy to use it.

He also read how the crowd cheered and went wild over Dempsey when he beat Sharkey. Perhaps another "has-been" could come back.

"In 30 weeks I would be in fighting shape," Firpo said.

No, Mr. Luis Angel Firpo is not happy. He wants to fight more than he wants money, of which he has a great deal.

CHAMP IN TIE

DEL MONTE, Cal., Feb. 13.—Miss Mabel Wilson of Buffalo, N. Y., feminine handicap trapshooting champion of the world, and Frank McCabe of Boise, Idaho, tied for first place here in the practice shoot preliminary to the forthcoming mid-winter handicap shoot, which will be staged next Friday.

Welters To Show Wares

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(A.P.)—Welterweights will supply the main action of the week's fistic activities, with Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat, opposing Sergeant Sammy Baker of Mitchell Field in a 10-round affair at Madison Square Garden Friday night. The winner has been promised recognition as the outstanding challenger for the title now held by Joe Dundee of Baltimore.

This will be the third meeting between Hudkins and Baker, each having been returned victor in the previous engagements. Baker upset Hudkins in a fierce tussle at the Polo Grounds last summer. Hudkins received such an ugly gash over the right eye that the referee halted the proceedings in the seventh round.

However, Hudkins evened up his standing with Baker in California recently by pounding out a decision over the soldier-boxer in a hard struggle. Hudkins battered Baker horizontal twice and went down himself once.

The semi-final on the card finds Maxie Rosenbloom milling against Jack McVey in an eight-rounder. Andy Di Volli and Jimmy Finley will be opposed in a second eight-round bout.

Smith Crowned South Central Champ

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 13.—(AP.)—MacDonald Smith, New York pro, today had employed four of his characteristic successive low rounds to acquire a new title, the South Central open, which he took yesterday with an aggregate of 283.

Five strokes below par for the 72-hole distance, Mac was but two strokes in front of Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., and Al Espinosa, Chicago, who split second and third place money with 285 apiece. Tommy Armour, national open titleholder, tied for the next place with Henry Cuici, Bridgeport, Conn., and Leonard Schmutte of Lima, O. The trio needed 289 each.

Bobby Cruickshank, who was unsuccessfully defending his title, contented himself with 291.

Bill Mehlhorn of Pittsburgh had 296, Larry Nabholtz of Sharon 304 and Charles Manning also of Pittsburgh 304.

Prize money totaling $5,000 was distributed.

LLOYD HAHN SEEKS NEW RECORD TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—Lloyd Hahn, America's hope in the coming Olympics, will seek another's world record tonight running in a special two-thirds of a mile event at the New York Elks meet in the One Hundred and Second Engineers' Armory here.

Hahn, already the holder of four world's marks for indoor track events, will race against Jimmy Connolly of the New York A. C., who established the present standard for the two-thirds of a mile in Old Madison Square Garden in 1925. Connolly's time is 2:42 3-5.

The records held by Hahn are for 1,000 yards, 1,000 meters, 1,500 meters and three-quarters of a mile. At one time Hahn was the champion for the indoor mile.

M'MILLIN MENTIONED AS KANSAS AGGIES' COACH

MANHATTAN, Kan., Feb. 13.—"Bo" McMillin, former Centre College gridiron star, was mentioned today as the probable choice of the Kansas State Agricultural College athletic board to become head football coach at that institution.

The board met today to choose a successor to Charles Bachman, who resigned to become head coach at University of Florida.

Al Ahearn, athletic director, said the names of Al Martineau, former University of Minnesota star, now coaching at Western State Normal, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Noble Kizer, Notre Dame star, at present line coach at Purdue, also were being considered.

Bucs Back In Hockey Fight

DETROIT, Feb. 13.—Shaking off the effects of the 3-1 defeat handed them Saturday night on their own ice by Montreal, the Pittsburgh Pirates came to this city yesterday and, playing like champions, defeated the Cougars 1-0 last night in a hectic battle.

Darragh was the hero of the victory. His goal in the second period, 4 minutes and 25 seconds after play started, was a dazzling one. He escorted the puck down the ice unassisted, engineered it through the Cougar defense and whamed it at the goal. Holmes made a fine stop, but on the rebound, the Buc winger drove it back again, and this time, in for the one point of the game.

The defense presented by the Pittsburgh skaters was admirable in the extreme, checking as it did every sortie attempted by the locals. Though pressed hard on numerous occasions, never once did the stubborn visiting guarding give to permit a Cougar to break through with a score.

As a result of the victory, the Bucs are within half a game of a playoff berth. Their recent spurt, during which they won four consecutive games, was rudely interrupted by the Maroons, but seems to have been resumed last night.

HARMARVILLE WINS SOCCER PROTEST

BUC-GIANT DEAL PUZZLES N. Y. FANS

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1928 — NINETEEN

BOWLS 300 AT DUCKS

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

IT IS perhaps the nature of a baseball fan to look at the trading operations of his own home club through rose-colored glasses. He hops at once to the optimistic conclusion that any deal made by the home management is bound to bring beneficial results and that the other side got the short end of the swap.

Burleigh Grimes

That's why we find most Pittsburgh rooters today feeling cockily sure that the Pirates got the better of the Aldridge-Grimes trade with New York, while in Gotham the game-goers are equally certain that there is an advantage for the Giants in the transfer.

As a matter of fact, it looks like a pretty even trade on the surface, with the season of 1928 alone able to bring the real answer as to which side got the edge.

YOU can't go by what the two pitchers did last year or in any other year that has gone. What they may do this year is the only thing that can determine which club gained and which club lost by the transaction.

One does not have to be a Pirate partisan, however, to feel that the Pittsburgh club got the better of the exchange, judged by a few angles apart from the pitching ability of the men and the fact that Grimes is the better fielder.

The comparative dispositions of the two men is one angle from which the Bucs seem to have profited, and disposition counts on a ball club just as well as ability.

GRIMES is a fiery-tempered individual, who is always ready to fight at the drop of the hat, but there is no bitterness in his nature, and the only thing that makes him want to fight is a desire to win ball games. That's an asset in a player.

Vic Aldridge.

Aldridge is of a different type. He tries hard to win, but when he loses he is sore rather than fighting mad, and proceeds to sulk because some one made a misplay behind him. Besides, he complains so often of an ailing arm that Manager Bush finally lost patience at one stage last season and informed him that he would have to pitch two days later or his pay would stop.

WHILE on the subject of arms, the New Yorkers who figure that the Giants got the better of the trade because Aldridge is 14 months younger than Grimes appear to be overlooking the fact that Vic is an enlbow or curve-ball pitcher, while Grimes is a spitball hurler, though the greater part of the time he is merely bluffing with the moist pitch and is depending mainly on his fast ball.

It follows that the strain in Aldridge's arm is far greater than on Burleigh's, so that in figuring Vic will outlast the spitballer the Gotham dopesters may be far wide of the mark.

The cominng of Burleigh, by the way, gives the Bucs the first spitballer they have had since Hal Carlson abandoned the pitch in 1926. There are only three spitballers remaining in the National League, the two others being Bill Doak of

NEW YORKERS BELIEVE PIRATES GOT EDGE

By ALAN J. GOULD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—To judge from the reaction to the latest trade of the New York Giants, the club has clinched first prize in the keep-the-boys guessing contest.

Without yet having solved, to their entire satisfaction, just why Hornsby was traded to the Braves the experts now are puzzling over the latest deal that sends Burleigh Grimes to the champion Pirates in exchange for Vic Aldridge, the Hoosier schoolmaster.

The Giants have taken their share of "riding" over the Hornsby deal and one of the assembled critics Saturday was bold enough to inquire whether "Charley Stoneham had taken John McGraw into his confidence" in trading Grimes.

Perhaps the explanation is that the Giants prefer a curve-ball pitcher who writes his own newspaper stuff to a spitball heaver with temperament.

Otherwise surface appearances all are in the Pirates' favor, for Grimes had by far the better record of the two last year.

Both Aldridge and Grimes have had erratic and checkered careers under various banners.

The Hoosier schoolmaster was both a hero and goat in the 1925 world's series with Pittsburgh. Vic won his first two starts against the Senators. So did Walter Johnson, and the setting was laid for a dramatic tussle when they hooked up in the seventh and deciding battle in the fog at Forbes Field. But Aldridge "blew up" in the first inning, let in four runs with his wildness and passed unceremoniously

SUN-TELE TOWN HALL STAND IS LAUDED

At a meeting of the Pittsburgh Collie Club yesterday, resolutions were unanimously passed favoring the erection of a Town Hall and thanking The Sun-Telegraph for the fearless manner in which it has been urging the project.

The Collie Club also decided to start a campaign to swing the 40,000 licensed dog owners in Allegheny county in favor of the movement by holding a mass meeting in connection with its annual show, to be held in the Pittsburgh Parking Garage, 555 Sixth avenue Saturday of next week. City councilmen and county commissioners will be invited to speak.

Plans for the show are almost complete. Entries close Thursday. Forms may be had at 116 Smithfield street or from the show superintendent, J. Wesley Dibert, 214 Semple street.

The proceeds will be donated to the milk and ice fund.

EASY, GRACEFUL FORM

George Albright, who last week startled the followers of bowling by rolling a perfect score in duckpins on the Sharpsburg alleys, has a fine, full-swinging delivery of the ball, as the above form pictures show.

READ THIS AND WEEP

All ye would-be bowlers. Here's what a perfect score sheet looks like. Twelve straight strikes are required to mark up a possible 300 tally. Albright's feat was all the more remarkable in that he finished up the preceding game with eight straight strikes, for a total of 20 in a row.

Bancroft May Lead Robins

By JOSEPH GORDON,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Dave Bancroft, recent manager of the Boston Braves and current shortstop of the Robins, will be the next pilot of the Brooklyn club, to succeed the venerable Wilbert Robinson, according to rumors which are rife in intimate baseball circles.

It is intimated that Robbie is rapidly tiring of his double duties with the club, and he wishes to be relieved of the managerial burden so that he may devote more time to his presidential duties.

A few years ago he tried out Zach Wheat, the ol' war-horse of the Robins, but found that worthy somewhat wanting in managerial skill. He tried him out in several series, gave him full swing of affairs; sitting in the dugout to check up on virtues and shortcomings, the ledger, at the end of the trial, was topheavy toward the left side.

Since then he has been looking around for apt material, it is said, and has been watching all possible candidates with shrewd eyes. When Bancroft was put on the open market by the Braves, Robbie jumped at the chance. It gave him a good shortstop for the present and a possible manager for the future.

Bancroft is one of the smartest men in the business. It is true that he couldn't do much with the Braves. But it is equally true that there is no telling what Napoleon would have done had he been at the head of the Mexican army instead of the French.

Giants, Cubs Lead Majors to Camp

By BILL SLOCUM,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—This is baseball's getaway week for Dixie and California.

Before the coming Saturday fades into darkness dozens of major league players will have donned uniforms and have taken their first workouts in the preliminary campaign leading up to the start of the pennant races on April 11.

The vanguard has left, a delegation of Giants having left this city for Hot Springs and a few Chicago Cubs have gone to Catalina Island, where Joe McCarthy's players will get in trim for the season.

Wednesday morning close to a score of Giants will be disporting in uniform at the Arkansas Spa, and the following day McCarthy will have his Cubs frollicking around under the rays of California's sunshine.

Three Yankee players will depart for Hot Springs Friday and one week later, on February 24, another squad of Hugmen will be on its way to the training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. Waite Hoyt, Stanley Covelskie and Benny Bengough will comprise the Yankee vanguard.

Donie Bush and his first squad of Pirates will be close behind the Cubs in the long trek to the West coast. The National League champs will return to Paso Robles and the first squad is due to reach there early next week.

The St. Louis Browns have picked next Saturday as the date of departure for West Palm Beach, Fla., where the lowly in baseball's estate will perform before society's elite.

One day later the St. Louis National League team, the Cardinals, will start for Avon Park, Fla., where they pranced around last spring as champions of the world.

Next Monday morning a delegation of Boston Red Sox will gather at South Station, bid farewell to

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

THE death recently of Col. Joe Thompson drew forth many tributes to his athletic prowess as a college performer, but none touched on his playing as a professional. J. J. Freund, Jr., local basketball authority, comes to bat in this connection with the statement that Col. Joe was one of the very best professional court stars ever developed in this section and was one of the few players really feared by the famous old South Side team, which he managed.

"Thompson could do everything well," Freund said, in recalling Joe's work as a professional floorman, "and he was so far ahead of any players we have had in recent years that there is no comparison. He was a wonderful shot and a fine all-round floorman who played the game hard from whistle to whistle. He also was a nearly-perfect foul shot and a marvel at drawing fouls. You can just put it down that he was one of the outstanding players of all I have seen in my many years of following the sport."

OVER in Philadelphia the other night, a young Belgian middleweight gave the fans the shock of their lives by handing a trimming to George Courtney, the Oklahoma cowboy, who had shown so much class and punching power that he had fought his way up to the position of leading contender for Mickey Walker's world middleweight crown. The foreign battler was Rene DeVos, and he now has supplanted Courtney in the leading contender role.

Who is DeVos? Well, a peek into his record reveals the fact that he had no license to be the unknown that he was before he defeated Courtney. When he came to these shores last fall he bore credentials from the European Boxing Federation which identified him as the real middleweight champion of Europe and clippings of two battles with Georges Carpentier, one of which he won and the other a draw, as well as

NOTES of the BOXERS

JOE DUNDEE, welterweight champion, meets Clyde Hull of Texas in their postponed bout at Cleveland tonight. They are to battle over the 12-round route. Hull will be remembered as the lad who rose to fame some months ago by knocking down Pete Latzo a few times in their bout in Texas at a time when Latzo still was welterweight champion. Latzo now is a light-heavyweight.

Phil Goldstein, local lightweight, boxes Freddie Mueller in a 10-round bout at Buffalo tonight. Mueller has met some of the best of them, including Billy Petrolle.

You've got to hand it to Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, for trying. He sought to put on a battle royal as a treat for his customers last week, but was denied permission for the novelty by the state commission, and this week he comes back with a card of three eight-rounders and a six-round preliminary. He has Allen Beatty, formerly of Uniontown and now of McKeesport, booked against Mickey Solomon of New Castle in the main event, will have Linn Jordan, Negro middleweight of Johnstown, in another eight-rounder and has paired Ike McFowler, Negro heavyweight of Johnstown, with Jack Wellis of Wheeling for the six-round bout.

Ray Mitchell, Philadelphia welterweight, boxes Solly Castellano in a 10-round bout at Newark, N. J., tonight.

Teddy Welsh, popular lightweight of McKeesport, goes to the post twice this week, the first time tonight at East Liverpool against Sig Keppen of Beaver Falls and New York for eight rounds and the second time Thursday at Johnstown, when he mingles with Georgie Harris of Niles, O., in the main event of

Heavyweight Ballyhoo

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(INS.)—"Whether I fight in September depends on Tex and the outcome of Tunney's June fight."

This insignificant statement from Jack Dempsey, appearing today in the current issue of "The Ring," a boxing publication, lent color today to the belief that the former heavyweight champion's recently announced "retirement" might not be a permanent one.

At the time Promoter Tex Rickard and Dempsey announced that Jack probably would not fight again because of eye trouble.

Dempsey's latest statement, given in reply to a query by "The Ring" as to his future plans, is as follows:

"Sorry, cannot go into details. Tex's decision is O. K. with me. Don't worry. Will accept a September date if offered and in condition. Have temporarily ceased training. I told Tex I would not be ready for a June fight, so his new arrangements are all right with me. Whether I fight in September depends on Tex and the outcome of Tunney's June fight."

SHOTS and PASSES

THE E. P. Junkers of McKeesport, the only team to defeat the J. J. Mieles, champions of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League, twice this season, Saturday night advanced to undisputed possession of first place in the second half of the P. & O. League race by swamping the champions in the Tube City.

The Junkers' victory over the Mieles was their sixth in seven games and places them in an excellent position to win the second half championship of the league. The defeat, incidentally, was the worst the Mieles had suffered this season.

The Junkers have been coming along in fine style since the close of the first half and will bear watching in the last stages of the race. Unless all signs fail they should enter the eliminations for the championship at the end of the season.

STRIVING to remain in the running for the second-round laurels of the Allegheny County League, two old rivals come together at the South Side Market House tonight when the Goose Goslins entertain the Broadway Club of Beechview.

Broadway has been suffering some tough reverses this season, but followers of the quintet are looking for a strong comeback. Battles between these two teams usually bring out a capacity turnout of divided supporters, and tonight's game should prove no exception.

Tomorrow night Broadway will invade the Columbus Temple floor bent on repeating its recent victory over the Enoch Rauh passers.

DRIBBLES

The Enoch Rauhs have entered a protest with the Allegheny County League officials over the defeat suffered in Butler Saturday night. They claim that an official, not eligible to handle the game, was chosen as referee when the regular arbiter did not appear. The Rauhs lost the game by two points.

earned triumph over the ...tling Siki. Since arriving in the United States he had knocked out Johnny Sayon, one of Jack Dempsey's former sparring partners, and beaten Del Fontaine, the Canadian champion, Eddie Dempsey and Vincent Forgione, among others. In other words, he was a tough egg entitled to respect. Courtney held him cheap and took a drubbing for his pains.

Incidentally, speaking of writing, of Courtney, they tell tales in New York to the effect that he has been doing the night clubs in heavy fashion and unless he gathers himself together may run into further reverses and ruin an exceptionally promising career.

MEMBERS of the Tristate Officials' Association are rounding out a busy basketball season with their work of such a consistently good order that their services are constantly in demand. This is the group of men banded together by Johnny Freund, referred to previously in this column, a year or so ago to provide officials at more moderate fees than the long-established West Penn Officials body would agree to accept. In consequence, the rival boards have been almost constantly at war. The fact that the Tristate officials have prospered is concrete evidence that there is plenty of room for both organizations. So satisfactory indeed has been the work of the Tristate men that we hear reports that a number of them have been invited to join the West Penn body, but have remained loyal to their organizer.

Among the members of the younger board are such outstanding game handlers as R. J. Mackey, Al Speer, Al Callahan, Chester L. Briggs, Dr. B. B. Breman, Robert Berman, Paul J. Bleichner, Walter S. Gross, Jack Goldman, Larry Green, Bill Griffiths, Elmer Haenel, Harry Levine, Leo Mackey, Dave Mervis, Leo Carroll, Sully Ross, William Sterling, Dr. G. J. Sarraf, Herman Strahl and John H. Wayman. President Freund does all of the booking for the arbiters.

TOM BIRKS, our soccer writer, tells a good story on John Weible, assistant coach at Duquesne University and former star at Notre Dame with Elmer Layden, the Dukes' head coach.

Weible was acting as linesman of the professional game between the Burns A. A. and McChesneytown teams during the past season when one of the youngsters along the sidelines, a typical hero-worshipper, came up to him and asked:

"Are you the great John Weible that played football?"

Weible modestly admitted his identity.

The kid looked him over, and, noting the Notre Dame initials, "N. D." on John's sweater, asked:

"What does the 'N. D.' stand for?"

"North Dakota," Weible replied and moved on with the play.

NET CLUBS MUST GET CONSENT OF BODY

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Demand for open tournaments allowing completion between amateur and professional tennis players has met with the virtual approval of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The association in meeting here passed a resolution which announced that any club desiring to stage an open tournament for both classes of players first must obtain consent of the association. However indications were that the sanction of the association could be obtained with little difficulty.

The resolution was construed as a move for closer relationship between the professional and the national tennis associations. It contained a clause urging the fostering and encouraging of the continuance and growth of the professional organization by the amateur association.

The association took up, under advisement, a motion made by Tilden to split this year's Davis cup team into two sections. Under Tilden's plan one section would condition in this country and the other in France.

an all-star card of four eight-rounders for the Miners' Relief Fund. Freddie Burleigh of New Kensington meets Patsy Kelly in the six-round semi-final at East Liverpool.

Beatty is quite a favorite with the McKeesport fans. He made his debut in the recent amateur tourney held in the Tube City and won four bouts in one night, two of them by knockouts. Then he turned pro against Georgie Peck, whom he defeated in six rounds. He followed with a return bout against Peck, scheduled for eight rounds, and won by a knockout in the seventh session. Solomon made a great showing against Jimmy Belmont of Braddock in his only appearance in this section.

The fans may expect considerable action when Willie Davies of Charleroi and Midget Weigast of Philadelphia square off for their state flyweight championship battle in the 10-round windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. It will be their third meeting. Weigast won the first, at Atlantic City, and Weigast grabbed the referee's decision in the second, at Philadelphia. Nick Susnell of Rochester, Pa., and Jack Katkish, who recently fought a tough six-round bout at Motor Square, have been rematched for the eight-round semi-final next Monday and Eddie Jiggs of Sharpsburg and Johnny Riley of Homestead will clash in the opener. The second bout will be closed today.

Stanley Simmons, local light-heavyweight, is in training for further battles, following his victory over Jack O'Connell of Cleveland at New Castle last Monday night. O'Connell defeated Simmons here recently, but Stanley more than evened up in their return engagement.

Amateur boxing bouts will feature a smoker of the Jack Barry Baseball Club in Turner Hall, Braddock, tonight.

Joe Glick and Al Gordon box the windup at the Arena in Philadelphia tonight. Marty Gold, Philadelphia flyweight, will meet Paddy Sullivan of California in a supporting 10-rounder.

Harry Dillon of Canada and Rolleaux Saguere, Duke Barry's Cuban light-heavyweight, will box a 10-round bout at Chicago tonight.

Tom gAndrews' annual sportin record book, featuring boxing records, is off the press, brighter and better than ever. The annual Everlasting Guide also is in circulation.

Willie Harmon, veteran welterweight, boxes Canada Lee, Negro of Harlem, in a six-round bout in Brooklyn tonight.

gave Grimes, for Vic is a big-salary lad.

MGRAW may figure it is killing more than one bird in landing Aldridge. Vic was a confirmed Giant tamer. According to Earl Smith, Firpo took a special delight in trimming the Polo Grounders when he fought with the Cubs, and he surely lived up to his lithographs in his Pirate career.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Brooklyn and Clarence Mitchell of Philadelphia.

ANOTHER item that makes Pittsburgh's end of the trade look like the better one is the matter of keeping in condition.

Aldridge has been accused more than once of being careless in this respect.

It will be recalled that when Manager Bush was unable to trade Aldridge, with another player thrown in, for Pete Donohue or another good pitcher last fall, it was not denied that Vic would have to pitch under different conditions this year if he remained in Pittsburgh, conditions that were suddenly enforced last year and led to Vic's winning six games in a row.

But it is reported that Aldridge refused to sign a contract with a clause in it that would assure his being in good shape steadily, and it was then that the Pirate management decided to make the trade for Grimes. Burleigh does not touch intoxicants nor tobacco.

PIE TRAYNOR had a lot to do with the action of the Pittsburgh club in acquiring Grimes.

Pie Traynor.

Pie has hunted with Grimes in the Wisconsin woods for two winters, repeatedly and urged the Buccaneer chiefs to try to bring the spitballer back to the local staff, figuring that he would be a strong winner here.

It was not through any trouble with President Barney Dreyfuss that Grimes was traded by the Pittsburgh club after the season of 1917. His difficulties were with Manager Hugo Bezdek.

ONE notable feature of the deal is that it marks the resumption of trading relations between two clubs that have been at loggerheads off the field as well as on it for nearly a quarter of a century.

The trouble may be said to have dated back to the spring before the season of 1901, when John McGraw kidnaped Third Baseman Jimmy Williams and took him to Baltimore to make him a member of the American League club there, which McGraw was then managing.

SOME time after McGraw jumped back to the National League on July 19, 1902, taking with him Pitchers Joe McGinnity and Jack Cronin, Catcher Roger Bresnahan and First Baseman Dan McGann, he was accused of having publicly insulted the owners and management of the Pittsburgh club and of having instigated an attack upon Manager Fred Clarke, a plot wherein Clarke was involved into the Giant office after the game and was beaten up by Catcher Frank Bowerman of the Giants while another New York player held him on the floor.

Barney Dreyfuss.

FROM then on a feud existed between the two clubs, as a result of which for more than two decades there have been no player deals, the transferring of athletes from one club to the other being confined to claims by the waiver route, such as the taking of Mike Lynch, Lee King, Don Songer and others by New York from Pittsburgh, and the acquisition by Pittsburgh through the same waiver medium of Brickyard Kennedy, Roscoe Miller, Spike Shannon and others from the Giants.

Until now Pittsburgh has not figured in a real trade with New York since 1904, and even then it was a three-cornered transaction, Cincinnati getting Outfielder Harry McCormick from New York for Outfielder Mike Donlin, and then trading McCormick to Pittsburgh for Outfielder Jimmy Sebring.

John McGraw.

The closest approach to even a purchase, apart from the waiver variety, since that time was chronicled in 1917, when Pittsburgh took First Baseman George Kelly from New York, on two weeks trial on August 2 and turned him back to the Giants on August 15.

Burgess Beaten In Race, But Gets Cup

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Jimmy Burgess, formerly Georgetown's foremost quarter-miler, won a vicarious victory in the "Great Suburban quarter" at the Knights of St. Anthony games in the One Hundred and Sixth Infantry Armory Saturday. Eddie Hector, Georgetown sophomore and former New York schoolboy, won the race in 52 2-5 seconds, but Burgess got the trophy.

This paradoxical state of affairs is an outcropping of complicated history and tradition. Hector will have to be content with the knowledge that his name is placed alongside of Ted Meredith, Jim Rosenberger, Jack Sellars, Walter Koppisch and others.

By the deed of gift, the trophy for the event was to go to the club or college winning the event three times. By track tradition, the club or college is bound to turn the trophy over to the athlete that scores two of the legs on the trophy. Burgess won the event in 1925 and 1927, the last two times it had been at stake.

the New England snows and move toward Bradentown, Fla. At the same time Secretary Walter McNichols of the Cleveland Indians will be leading a number of his Tribesmen to New Orleans.

Between February 20 and 25 the first squads of Robins, Mackmen, Reds, Senators and Phillies will be moving toward Florida to start work in the late days of the month. The Chicago White Sox, who depart on February 28 for Shreveport, La., will be the latest to get started.

TRADE

from the picture. Old Barney stuck it out in spite of the terrific hitting off his delivery, but was beaten and also lost the chance to join the immortal few who have three triumphs in one series to their credit.

The trading of Aldridge marks the passing from the Pirate fold of the last of their 1925 world's series heroes.

Max Carey was the all-around star, setting the pace at bat, but Max became mixed up in the 1926 Pirate revolt, receiving his walking papers, and now roams the outfield for Brooklyn.

Kiki Cuyler's double off Walter Johnson was the deciding hit of the series but Kiki likewise earned the enmity of the management and now is with the Cubs.

Stuffy McInnis, whose steadying influence on the Pirates' defense and infield strategy turned the tide in their favor, hit the trail that all fading veterans do.

Grimes, one of the most effective twirlers in the league when right, has had a career of ups and downs in 12 years of major league experience. His holdout tactics in the spring while with Brooklyn were as famous as his spitball offerings in mid-summer.

Last year Burleigh was a prime factor in the late-season rush of the Giants toward the top, especially during their sensational western trip. But he offset some of this distinction by being belted all over the lot by the Phillies in a crucial game that ruined the last slim pennant hopes of the McGraw clan.

SOCCER

Patterson of Detroit, with Committeemen Tom Smith of Detroit and William Angus of Cleveland in attendance, as the protest of the Harmarville F. C. against the Union Switch and Signal was to be settled.

Harmarville protested the Swissvale game on the grounds that no corner flags had been placed and that the field was not lined. Owing to insufficient evidence, Chairman Patterson got Referee Bob Brown on long distance phone to give additional evidence, and when that was given the committee decided to order a replay at Harmarville on or before next Sunday, February 19. The letter from the officials of the West Penn Football Association asked for a reprimand of the referee. This was not done.

The other draw that affected Western Pennsylvania will send the winners of the protested game against Clan McPherson. The game must be played on or before February 26.

Heidelberg already has contracted to play the semi-final of the West Penn Cup with the Internationals on February 26, and will either meet the Magyars next Sunday or ask the National Amateur committee for a postponement.

It was very evident that the National Amateur Cup committee fully coincided with the story printed in The Sun-Telegraph regarding their visit to Pittsburgh for the draw of the third round.

SOCCER
YESTERDAY'S SCORES

Heidelberg	10	Pittsburgh	0
Braddock	3	Douglass	1
Germans	3	Harmarville	2
Internationals	2	Corinthians	1
Mustard Hollow	4	McKees Rocks	1
Westinghouse	3	National Tube	1

William Angus, who is also vice president of the national body, went on record stating, "The Amateur Cup committee is really angry at the attitude taken by West Penn officials in not giving them a chance to meet soccerites of Western Pennsylvania on that visit."

Chairman Patterson also cleared up another point that has been a bone of contention all season in Pittsburgh regarding who has the appointment as national amateur commissioner. Patterson stated that the West Penn Football Association has the appointment as a body, no one in particular being named.

Ohio state soccer officials really did things up right for the national officials. The afternoon was spent at the National Amateur Cup game between the Workers F. C. of Cleveland and the Swedish-Americans of Detroit. This incidentally is the club that Chairman Patterson says will take the title from Heidelberg. The Swedes won the game by a 5 goals to 1 score. The Swedes have a wonderful scientific soccer club, but the outfit is not the one that will stop the Green and Gold. It looked good against the Workers, who are a slow outfit, but Heidelberg is a different proposition and should beat the Detroit cracks if they meet.

The committee was dined on return from the game. In the evening the business before the councilmen was transacted, the draw and three protests being on the agenda. Only one protest was allowed, that being the Harmarville-Swissvale protest.

One protest that should interest Pittsburghers was made by the Chicago Swedes and based on the alleged incompetency of the referee. Patterson gave an opinion that should interest fans. He said:

"Once a referee has been appointed to a game, he cannot be charged with incompetency. The referee does not appoint himself, so the committee should stand by its election."

The pre-session soccer gossip also indicated that the national amateur convention will be called at Milwaukee, Wis., on June 30 and July 1.

The draw for the East and West divisions was made as the last item of business. Heidelberg's tough luck in the draw was again manifest. Balsarini's cracks had three chances to come out first in the only way the draw could be made with fairness, but did not make the grade.

U. S. Tied for Second In 500-Meter Race

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 13.—(AP.)—A tie for second place in the 500-meter speed skating was the best the United States could accomplish today in the winter Olympics.

O'Neill Farrell of Chicago, who covered the distance in 43 6-10 seconds, tied with Jasko Friman, Finland, and Roald Larsen, Norway.

Peterson of Norway was ranked as sixth with a time of 43 8-10 seconds.

The position of the other United States entrants was: Eighth, Eddie Murphy, Chicago, 44 2-10; eleventh, Irving Jaffee, New York, 45 2-10, and sixteenth, Valentine Bialis, 46 3-10.

Charles Gorman of Canada was seventh with a time of 43 9-10 seconds. The time of the other Canadian entrants was: Ross Robinson, 45 9-10 and Logan, 46 2-10.

They Think and Plan, Big Things Out West.

—By B. C. FORBES—

IN THE NORTHWEST, Feb. 12.—They think big out here—especially regarding things of the future. Each city visions itself a teeming, towering metropolis. Industries here are to attain gigantic proportions. Trade with the Orient is to fill the Pacific Ocean with a volume of commerce the Atlantic has never known. Hydro-electric development is to lead and stagger the nation. And irrigation is to make millions of acres bloom and bring forth fruit and food for the larger American population that is to be.

One proposed irrigation project alone is to bring into cultivation nearly two million acres!

THAT is not an fairy dream. Did not President Coolidge in his memorable address at the Union League of Philadelphia declare:

"THE COLUMBIA BASIN IRRIGATION PROJECT IS NOT FAR DISTANT."

And did not Secretary of Commerce Hoover include this as one of the major objectives in any comprehensive plan of flood control, irrigation and reclamation?

And was not one of the last undertakings of Gen. Goethals an inspection of the Columbia basin, followed by a declaration that the project was feasible from an engineering standpoint and that its construction would rank as one of the greatest engineering accomplishments in history and that it was needed by the nation?

THE present prospect is that you will hear much about this huge development before long. Congress is expected to make an appropriation for preliminary engineering work.

The plan contemplates irrigating approximately 1,852,000 acres, with 1,117,000 acres of unirrigated land for grazing. It is the largest unified body of land to be irrigated in the United States. It lies in South Central Washington, its western boundary only 150 miles from Seattle. The water will be obtained from the Columbia River, utilizing the drainage from Montana, Idaho and Washington. Water can be obtained by gravity, or by pumping. Power created by the mammoth dam can be utilized by Northwest cities.

Such cities as Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, etc., will be incalculably benefited by opening up this new agricultural empire.

IT WILL take eight to twelve years after starting work on the main canal before water will flow onto the land, and not for five years more will there be any considerable production from the first unit. When completed, tracts will be available for 25,500 families.

The basin lands, for geologic ages a lake bed, are fairly level, easy to strip of their sagebrush, and in some places have 100 feet of sandy loam and silt loam. Their fertility was proved by farmers who invaded them some 25 years ago. When rainfall was ample they raised fine crops; in dry seasons crops failed. So the farmers quit.

The project will require about 6,000,000 acre feet of water. The main canal under the gravity system will be 134 miles, passing through 24 miles of tunnels and using 40 miles of natural lakes and 60 miles of open canals.

Five railroads and numerous branch lines cover the area, giving it excellent ready-made transportation.

Estimated cost, $200,000,000. A committee of responsible northwest financiers has worked out a plan under which a 50-year loan of $150,000,000 would be all the Federal Treasury aid necessary. Settlers would make annual payments ranging from $1.29 to $7.43 per acre. Incidentally, farmers on Federal irrigation lands have averaged $53.42 gross per acre, much above the nation's average.

SUPPORTERS urge that irrigation means more customers for manufactured products—and reliable customers, since they are less exposed to crop failures.

The Columbia Basin Irrigation League estimates that it will take two years for engineers to compile specifications and get construction bids, eight years for building the 134-mile main canal, five years to settle farmers on the first unit of approximately 470,000 acres, five years to settle the second unit, five years for the third and five more for the fourth unit of 470,000 acres.

Thirty years would be required to complete the whole work.

It is reasoned that by the time cultivation gets under way, our population will have multiplied sufficiently to call for all that can be raised from this rich land.

HOW'S that for thinking and planning big?

STEAL SAFES -:- FROM -:- TWO BAKERIES

PATROLMAN ELMER STREETT

A safe, containing $375 and valuable records, was removed from the Haller Baking Company's office at 519 Broadway, McKees Rocks, late Saturday. A broken window in the rear of the office admitted the safe robbers and a truck, backed up to the loading platform, received the 350-pound strong box. J. R. Bittner, manager of the office, deplored the loss of records. Stowe township Patrolman Streett said he walked the beat in front of the office all night and saw nothing out of the way.

J. R. BITTNER

ANOTHER SAFE GONE

A huge cabinet safe, this one housing $085 and office records, was stolen from the Haller Baking Company's office in Bausman street, Knoxville. Robbers worked in similar manner as at the McKees Rocks robbery, gaining entrance through small window at rear and removing safe over loading platform. C. F. Rock, manager, who is showing size of safe, had a similar misfortune last year while at the Stayton street, North Side, office of Haller's Bakery Company.

FAVORS WHIPPING POST

A bill for the revival of the whipping post of early colonial days as an additional penalty for robbery and other crimes has been introduced in the Massachusetts legislature.

MINING OF COAL IS VIRTUALLY STOPPED

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—Ohio's greatest industry—that of bituminous coal mining, was virtually paralyzed today with complete abandonment of many of the mines contemplated.

Forty thousand striking miners are idle, sabotage and rioting and frequent and the climax is still in the offing. The strike—one of the most bitter dramas in the history of the country—has been in effect since last April, when the Jacksonville wage pact, guaranteeing skilled miners $7.50 a day, expired.

The pact possibly will never be renewed because the mine owners insist they cannot operate under the agreement and profitably compete with nonunion mines in Kentucky and West Virginia.

The miners, led by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, are determined to hold out for renewal of the compact, or at least for what they term an equitable compromise.

State militiamen are held in readiness prepared for eventualities.

FEAR TROUBLE

Open rebellion—if such occurs—may be expected April 1—officials fear, when a federal court order evicting union miners' families from houses owned by non-union mines becomes effective.

Sixty-five kitchens have been set up in the coal fields and are feeding 5,000 children a day, scores of trucks loaded with clothing, shoes and canned goods have been sent into the destitute areas and the state has an $18,000 relief fund on hand.

Meanwhile the state's coal production has declined from 3,000,000 to 200,000 tons a month. Two hundred and fifty large mines—normally employing 30,000 men—are idle and 90 per cent of the smaller mines are inoperative. In addition, the Sunday Creek Coal Company, one of the largest in the state, is threatening to abandon its mines, even to withdrawing its maintenance men.

William Martin.

Word was received in Pittsburgh yesterday of the death of William Martin, who died in Los Angeles Saturday. He was born in old Allegheny, 83 years ago, and later studied civil engineering. For more than 25 years he was engaged with the United States engineers, Pittsburgh district, and during that time constructed the first dam on the Ohio River at Davis Island and later built the Merrill Dam at Beaver, Ohio River. He retired in 1915. Mr. Martin leaves a son, one brother and a sister. He was a Mason and a member of the United Presbyterian Church.

Noah F. Clark.

Noah F. Clark, 76, oil and gas operator, 6810 Thomas boulevard, died yesterday morning at Rochester, Minn. Mr. Clark was born in Malmesbury, England, in 1852, and came to America when he was 16. He entered the oil industry in Western Pennsylvania in its early days and was first associated with the firm of Clark, Payne & Co. of Cleveland, O. He later was connected with the Standard Oil Company and was for many years vice president and general manager of the South Penn Oil Company. Mr. Clark was a member of the Duquesne Club.

Mrs. Mary J. Morrow.

Mrs. Mary Jane Morrow, 85, died yesterday in her home, Bakerstown. She was born in what is now Wildwood, within four miles of the place of her death. She was a life-long member of the Presbyterian Church, Bakerstown. She leaves four sons, three daughters, 37 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Thomas Denholm.

Thomas Denholm, 76, died yesterday at the home of his brother, James M. Denholm, 6951 McPherson boulevard. He was born in Westmoreland county and lived in Pittsburgh 15 years. He was a member of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church. He leaves six brothers.

Alfred J. Rogers.

Alfred J. Rogers, 68, died Saturday at his home, 2400 Saranac avenue, South Hills. He was born in old Allegheny, the son of the late Capt. Thomas Rogers and Priscilla Kounts Rogers. Mr. Rogers was one of Pittsburgh's oldest accountants. He was president of the Chartered Accountants of Pennsylvania with offices in the Berger Building. He leaves his widow, two sons, one sister and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Mary E. Turney.

Mrs. Mary E. Turney, widow of David C. Turney, died Saturday at her home, 615 Beechwood avenue, Carnegie. Mrs. Turney was born in Boston in 1847 and moved to Carnegie in 1879. She was a member of the Carnegie Methodist Episcopal Church, the Ladies of the Golden Eagle, the Amarantha and a charter member of the Carnegie Chapter of the Eastern Star. She leaves one daughter, Miss Lucetta H. Turney, at home; three sons, Robert W. of Crafton, Amzi H. of Charlotte, N. C., and James R. of Lethridge, Canada, and one granddaughter. Funeral services will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the home. Burial will take place tomorrow at Greensburg.

From coast to coast, REM's become a household remedy for coughs. Here's why: "Pleasant,-- harmless,-- effective." What more can a cough medicine be?

Insist on REM! Remember, its effectiveness is largely due to a special ingredient, not in ordinary cough syrups.

NO. 26.

AN ORDINANCE — Authorizing and directing an increase in the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount, to provide funds for the purpose of paying the cost, damages and expense (including engineering expenses), for the purchase, construction and installation of an electric traffic control signal system, or systems, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, to provide funds for the purpose of paying cost, damages and expense (including engineering expenses), for the purchase, construction and installation of an electric traffic control signal system, or systems.

Section 2. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars be issued for the purposes aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or multiples thereof, shall be dated as of the first day of February, 1928, and shall be payable in ten (10) equal annual installments of Twelve Thousand Five Hundred ($12,500.00) Dollars each, one of which shall mature on the first day of February in each of the years 1929 and 1938, inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum payable semi-annually on the first days of February and August in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering the said coupon bond or bonds with all coupons not then due at the office of the City Controller of said City.

This bond is one of a series of bonds amounting in the aggregate to One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, issued by the City of Pittsburgh for valid municipal purposes by virtue and in pursuance of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof," approved April 29, 1874, and the several supplements and amendments thereof; and by virtue of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act to authorize the registry or transfer of certain bonds," approved May 1, 1873; and in pursuance of an ordinance of the City of Pittsburgh, entitled, "An Ordinance authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount to provide funds for the purpose of paying the cost, damages and expense (including engineering expenses), for the purchase, construction and installation of an electric traffic control signal system, or systems, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon," duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on ..... 1928, and duly recorded and published in the manner required by law.

It is hereby certified and recited that every requirement of law affecting the issue hereof has been duly complied with; that provision has been made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest and also the principal hereof at maturity; that the total amount of indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh, created without the consent of the electors thereof, including the entire issue of the above mentioned bonds, aggregating One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, of which this is one, is less than two per centum (2%) of the last preceding assessed valuation of the taxable property therein; and that this bond and the debt created thereby are within every debt and other limit prescribed by the Constitution and laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Given under the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the City Controller, as of the first day of February, 1928.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
CITY OF PITTSBURGH
ELECTRIC TRAFFIC CONTROL SIGNAL BONDS 1928.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation created by and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is indebted to the bearer in the sum of..... Dollars ($.....), lawful money of the United States of America, which sum the said City of Pittsburgh promises to pay to the said bearer at the office of the City Treasurer of said City on the first day of February....., A. D. 19..., with interest thereon from the date hereof at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually to the bearer of the annexed coupons at the time and place therein specified without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. And for the true and faithful payment of the principal of this bond and the semi-annual interest thereon, as aforesaid, the faith, honor, credit and property of the said City of Pittsburgh are hereby pledged.

Any one or more of the coupon bonds of the series of which this is one may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 47 (Contingent Fund). Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller, and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with a facsimile signature of the City Controller, in case of the absence or disability of any of such officials, the bonds shall be signed by the city official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place. Each of said bonds shall be known and designated as ELECTRIC TRAFFIC CONTROL SIGNAL BONDS 1928.

Section 3. That said bonds shall be sold by the Mayor and the City Controller, at not less than par and accrued interest, after giving such notice of sale as may be required by law.

Section 4. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now by law liable, or hereafter made liable, to assessment for taxation for City purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after debt shall have been increased or incurred, namely, the year 1929, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the City, and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to ten per centum (10%) of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said City for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenue of the City an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

Section 5. That all bonds issued by the authority of this ordinance and the Acts of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become due and payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said City are hereby pledged.

ELLA CINDERS — The Big Offer

Ella's decided to go west and look into the radium cave — she is terribly worried about how much of a look-in the stockholders will have ····
MR KADOS, I'M GOING OUT WEST AND SATISFY MYSELF THAT THERE REALLY IS RADIUM IN OUR MINE — AND I'M LEAVING AT ONCE!
THIS IS SO SILLY, AND I WON'T BE A PARTY TO IT! IF YOU DON'T LIKE THE WAY I'M RUNNING THIS COMPANY, GET OUT AND START ONE OF YOUR OWN!
WHA-A-T? GET OUT OF MY OWN COMPANY?
WE HAVE COME TO THE POINT WHERE THE AFFAIRS OF THIS CORPORATION SHOULD BE UNDER THE CONTROL OF ONE RESPONSIBLE PERSON —THEREFORE, I SUGGEST THAT YOU BUY MY STOCK AND I WILL GET OUT!
BUT — BUT I HAVEN'T THE MONEY!
THAT'S WHAT I THOUGHT! THEN I WILL BUY YOUR HOLDING AND CONTROL THE COMPANY MYSELF —WITH THE UNDERSTANDING THAT THE CORPORATION CONTINUES TO BEAR YOUR NAME AND YOU REMAIN AS PRESIDENT— WITH NO POWERS!
I— I'LL THINK IT OVER!
SO!
Something funny about this! Why should Kados want to buy Ella's stock?

THIS WAGGISH WORLD by Roy K. Moulton

MORE CRUTCHES FOR LAME DUCK.

EXCITEMENT has risen to such a fever heat over the Presidential campaign and frantic efforts to get somebody to take the nomination, that we wired Goof to send us a special story giving his expert views. Maybe some "lame duck" Senator or Congressman might be inveigled into running for President at that. You never can tell. They may find somebody yet.

By GOOF M'GARGLE,
Wash. Correspondent for This Column.

WASHINGTON—Well things are certainly warming up here as some of the most political experts would say and there are many clues as to who will try to be President. As a matter of fact, it is talked of no little.

I wish to set one rumor at rest, now. The report that Cal is declining the presidency in favor of Al Smith is exaggerated. That comes from a person close to the White House (Cook Book).

The big event recently, of course, was former Senator William M. Butler's famous speech in Kansas City when he said Cal has not definitely decided not to run and may be drafted. That piece of news is as old as Adam's pet wildcat and just about as pathetic.

However, when Butler returns to Boston, he had better go around by way of Canada and not pass through Washington. The Pres. is not a violent man, but he figgers he has laid that spook to rest often enough.

That was Senator Butler who always was Cal's tillicum and etc. Any man can get along somehow with his enemies, but may the Lord deliver him from his friends.

HENRY FORD, an automobile manufacturer, shocked and surprised the inmates of the flivver incubator, also the village of Dearborn when he announced outright that he had decided to come out flat-footed, and the etc., in favor of Herbert Hoover for President. Well, now, I want to know! Dew tell!

Well, that seems to settle it, but we will probably have to hold some kind of an election just for the formality. Well, we're glad in one way Herbert has been selected like this and everything settled, as it gives us one less thing to worry about.

Henry is varying his political program a little this time. Usually he comes out first with a denial of his own candidacy, then he nominates Edison for it, and the two of them get together and hold a convention and nominate Harvey Firestone for it.

This time Herbert Hoover seems to be the idea. And if Al Smith wants a better break than that, we can't get it for his in this country.

A MAN by the name of Mink was found wandering around examining the outside of the White House. He said he was from Tucson, Ariz., and, hearing that nobody wanted to occupy that house, he had come to look it over, thinking, if he liked the house, he might accept the presidency.

Asked if he intended to take the presidency, Mr. Mink said: "No. The house has no sleeping porch." People are getting a little finicky about taking this job.

Since Cal has been trying so hard to get rid of it, everybody is beginning to think there is something wrong with it. And there probably are more things wrong with that job than with any other in the United States.

A man can't save a nickel, and if he does try to break even, somebody is sure to ask for a Senate investigation. Being the poorest-paid public official in the world, it seems as though any President's condition will have to be improved soon by having the neighbors carry in things at night.

The President can't cut down expenses by taking care of his own furnace or doing anything on the side that way. He is so well known that he cannot disguise himself as a paperhanger or some other honest artisan and go out and pick up a little extra money for the Little Woman.

That's why nobody wants it. I hope to tell you, it is. Oh, yeah. Well, anyhow—,

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "THE POINT IN MARRIAGE"

Many a man WONDERS, at some Moment or other, just WHY he MARRIED. That is to Say, just why he married
The PARTICULAR woman he DID marry!
Maybe, while he wonders, "she"
Is ASLEEP. Maybe she is OUT.
But inevitably she is NOT.
Doing the thing he wants
Her to do. She is not
MEASURING up.
Women, of course, go through
All these STAGES, too.
But most GIRLS do not wonder
Why they MARRIED. They KNOW!
Although they may not be GETTING what they THOUGHT they Would get, or as much of it.
MEN, of course, are more
ROMANTIC than women, so they SUFFER more when they have
Time to THINK of it.
Marriage is a LOTTERY
With every card a BLANK.
Time is the JUDGE. As the Years go by, we find out
NOT whether we picked a WINNER, or a loser, but Whether WE, ourselves, are Good winners or good LOSERS.

BUGS BAER Says

YOU can now talk to Europe via telephone for five dollars per minute. Which is very expensive stuttering.

There are no refunds on this system of trans-Atlantic telepathy. It is strictly person-to-person debate. You ask for your station and the telephone expert starts out in a rowboat to locate the wire trouble.

There is no sense in launching ourselves on this oceanic static. First of all, the price defeats the reason.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

Even though you are anxious to talk with Lloyd George, what good will it do you? Central gets Threadneedle 583 and says:

"Drop five dollars in the coin box."

That's when you lose your voice.

Science of telephoning is getting very elaborate. They used to give us wrong numbers.

Now they're going to give us wrong continents.

It will not do you any good to drop lead slugs in the gold slot, because central can retaliate by hooking you up with China.

And you've wasted a lead slug.

At the rate of five spinners per minute it will cost three hundred bills an hour to annoy a friend in Paris.

It will be more economical to tap in on the neighbor's party wire and get your gossip at wholesale rates.

And the lady next door who drops in and smirkles, "Do you care if I use your telephone a minute?"

Oh, nope, you don't care much at the rate of $7,200 a day. And no international tribunal has ever accused the phone company of writing their bills in evaporating ink.

There will be sweethearts who will telephone, though oceans roar between.

But they will not be sweethearts long.

When Oscar gets that reversed charge of $462.90, he will sound off an octave higher than the roaring oceans and get himself a sweety who lives on the other end of a dumbwaiter shaft.

In the meantime, we will limit our calls to stations which do not require bank references and three reliable signatures.

Sharp Words

"My dear," called a wife to her husband in the next room, "what are you opening that tin with?"

"Why," he said, "with a tinopener. What did you think I was doing it with?"

"Well," replied his wife, "I thought, from your remarks, you were opening it with a prayer."

Suitable to Many

Saleswoman—"Here's a card with a beautiful sentiment on it: 'To the Only Girl I Ever Loved'!"

Young Man—"That's the very thing. I'll take five—no, six of those."

No Good!

Mistress — "Where's the jelly, Bridget?"

Bridget—"Faith, missus, ye told me the bloomin' stuff was moulded, so I throwed it away."

Going by Water

Sailor—"I say, we're two days overdue. Why do you suppose we've not sighted land?"

His Companion—"Can't imagine but ever since the compass fell overboard I've been steering by the barometer."

Anachronism

He—I love you, darling.

She—Oh, don't be so sentimental.

Hiring Water Cost Clerk Is Wise Move by Council

At a cost of $3,000 a year, Council is going to find out if the Bureau of Water is self sustaining. At that salary a cost account clerk has been engaged to determine the revenues, the probable capital investment and the cost of operation.

This is a business-like step. In delivering water to consumers, the bureau is a producer and distributor of a commodity in the same sense as the manufacturer of any commodity. And it is a big producer, too.

How far would any manufacturer go without knowledge of his costs? In a real organization these are constantly checked, since, for various reasons costs fluctuate, and there would be no means of knowing to what level they should be kept were there no cost-accounting.

Council has made a wise move.

Uniform of Brave Men Worthy of Being Honored

We honor the uniform of the policeman, fireman, soldier, because it represents something big and inspiring. Its wearer is a volunteer to service, sacrifice, duty, who may be called upon at any time to lay down his life. We honor, too, the uniform of the letter carrier, another devoted and faithful bearer of responsibility. The uniform that represents public service, hard work and willingness to face danger is worthy of honor because of what it represents.

Among the thousands who wear it so that it may be honored, there is an occasional one like the three policemen just recommended for dismissal by the police trial board, each on a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer. Whether the recommendations are ever carried out or not, the fact remains that the uniform worn by officers is held to be something that must not be disgraced.

The uniform is a symbol of readiness to sacrifice even life—and its wearer is frequently called upon to do just that. Only recently a fireman in Mt. Washington went to a fire that was so trivial that it did little damage, measured in dollars. Yet the fireman we speak of died of smoke suffocation while engaged in ascertaining if there were fire in the basement of the building.

Not long ago several firemen were injured by a falling wall at the Grant School fire. Many big fires throughout the year are attended by serious casualties. Many times the blue uniform of the policeman is the target for some thug's bullet. A patrolman entering an alley to investigate the source of a noise or a light virtually takes his life in his hands. He does not know what danger the shadows conceal.

Every man who puts on the uniform of a policeman or a fireman takes the place of another whose uniform may have a bullet hole in it or be stained with the blood of a brave fireman caught under a falling wall.

Yes, the uniform means something big and inspiring. It means that because it is worn by so many heroes and by so few who dishonor it and are faced with the decree that they must surrender it because they did not pay it proper respect.

Every uniform is a symbol of service—the uniform of the policeman, the fireman, the soldier, the street sweeper, the sailor, the railroader. Honor it always because it means wor performed for you. And usually for pay far less than the service is worth.

Extensions at Mayview To Bring Model Hospital

With the breaking of ground by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, and Mayor Charles H. Kline, the city of Pittsburgh now is engaged in the first phase of extensive alterations and improvements at the Municipal Hospital, Mayview. When they are completed, $1,500,000 will have been expended to make this one of the greatest institutions of its kind in the United States.

Mayview, even at present, stands out as an example of efficient and judicious expenditure of the taxpayers' money. It is one feature of city government which the active administrators are proud and happy to show the public. It is one place where the citizen can see that his dollar buys even more than a dollar's worth of service and comfort for the patients for whom he gives it.

The extensions under way are designed to make Mayview a model institution. Pittsburgh has reason to congratulate itself on the fact that they have been wisely planned and that the present policy, if continued, will not disclose any cause for regret.

Use All Troops Needed To End the Nicaragua Job

The United States should send adequate troops to Nicaragua and deal with the subject as Roosevelt would have done.

The United States should clean up the matter conclusively in a brief space of time instead of dragging it out for an unnecessarily long period, with the result of possible complications and the certainty that a considerable number of Marines will be killed.

The way not to do things in matters of this kind was shown by Wilson in his Mexican policy.

The way to do them was shown by Roosevelt in his Panama policy, and in his dealing with the pretensions of certain European nations in Venezuela.

First and foremost, the government of the United States has soldiers in Nicaragua protecting American citizens who were invited to come to that country and invest their lives and property, now threatened by conditions of revolution and universal insecurity.

Second, the government of the United States has military forces in Nicaragua discharging the kind of obligation imposed on us by the Monroe Doctrine.

No nation today can allow conditions of banditry destructive of foreign lives and property without inviting foreign intervention.

By the Monroe Doctrine we warn European and Asiatic countries not to intervene in this Hemisphere. That means we have got to be the influence for Latin-American order.

We sent Marines to Nicaragua to eliminate the bandit Sandino and keep order in the country until a regular election for the Nicaraguan presidency can be held this fall.

If there are not enough Marines to do the job promptly and properly, send Regulars to help them. There would be no criticism in the Senate if Mr. Coolidge followed the Roosevelt plan.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up betimes and to breakfast with Jean Knott, the St. Louis limner, and walked with him through the park and down the avenue and saw Gene Tunney strolling along. And without self consciousness, too, and I think he grows in popularity.

Home in the late afternoon to work awhile and with my wife to one of the ornate cinema palaces and the orchestra played "Madam Butterfly," very beautiful, but later came so much vaudeville, ballets and such instead of pictures I determined to go to such amusement halls less.

In the evening some company to dinner and around midnight we decided to go to an Ethiopian cafe in Harlem, reputed gay and terribly wicked, but found it dull as a Sunday in London. So to walk on Stivers' Row. And to bed.

The stage door-keeper is a distinct Rialto type—an old man who sits in the shadows puffing a pipe in shirt-sleeve ease. He receives from $25 to $30 a week and is often father confessor to young people of the stage. Many door-keepers are old character actors and they are generally beloved by the profession.

More than a dozen men of some reputation who have visited gyp night clubs have been the targets for a blackmailing racket during the past few months. Those of responsibility and happy family ties are the victims. A day or so after their visit they are called upon to make good a check bearing their forged signature. They are told by the blackmailers a request was made to present the check to them for cash instead of presenting it to the bank. If they refuse, the affair is followed by a court summons at which plaintiffs do not appear. But few men will permit it to go that far. They pay up rather than face publicity.

The Bowery has a bewhiskered old character known as Dumdum. For 20 years he has "mooched" trifling sums from passersby and had them changed into bright new pennies, which he distributes to children of the tenements. According to the legend, he begs his food and clothes, sleeps in hallways and never devoted a penny of his begging to himself.

Begging, incidentally, along New York streets has shown enormous increase during the past year. The police report many men have given up good jobs to seek alms. A skillful beggar, they say, can easily make $10 a day and be his own boss. Some make $20 a day and there are records of daily receipts reaching $500 a day.

(Copyright, 1928, by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Sirius and Canopus

THE two greatest of the stars are now in the evening sky, one visible from the northern, the other from the southern hemisphere. They are Sirius, the northern leader (though it is south of the celestial equator) and Canopus, the great star of the south. No other star can be compared with either of these in brightness, as seen by our eyes, but although Sirius appears brighter than Canopus, yet, as we shall see, Canopus is in truth not only the more luminous of the two, but it may be without a rival anywhere in the universe. But as we see it, it is dimmed in comparison with Sirius by its much greater distance.

Sirius is seen on the meridian, i. e., directly south in the sky, and about 34 degrees above the horizon, at 9 p. m. Canopus is then only 5 degrees west of the meridian, but being 35 degrees south of Sirius, it skims along under the horizon, invisible from the northern states, but to be glimpsed from Southern Georgia, Florida and other Gulf states, and still better seen from Southern Texas.

Photometrically Sirius is nearly a magnitude brighter than Canopus, yet at times, in the southern hemisphere, from which, in a latitude corresponding to ours, both stars are simultaneously seen high in the sky near the meridian, observers have thought that Canopus excelled its great rival in brilliance.

The superior splendor of the tropical night sky is mainly due to the fact that Sirius and Canopus reign together in it, while at the same time, all of the greatest constellations of both the northern and the southern heavens are in view practically from pole to pole.

While Sirius at a distance from us of about 50 trillion miles has only about 24 times the luminosity of our sun, Canopus at a distance from us of perhaps 4,000 trillion miles, has possibly 80,000 times the luminosity of our sun.

It is natural that whatever ranks highest in any order of things should for that reason alone attract great attention and admiration. So from the earliest recorded times we find that Sirius and Canopus have been watched, talked about, and made the subjects of legends and of superstitious beliefs and practices. They have been ranked among gods. Both have had temples built to receive their rays. The fame of Sirius as the "Dog Star" was very great in ancient Rome. The Roman farmers annually sacrificed a yellow dog to Sirius when he set after or rose before the sun. And Virgil sang of him:

"Parched is the grass and blighted is the corn,
Nor 'scape the beasts, for Sirius from on high
With pestilential heat infects the sky."

Those were the "dog days." Sirius "lodging with the sun," and, to the imagination of the ancients, adding his fierce rays to those of the God of Day.

As for Canopus, besides the worship that the Egyptians concentrated upon that star, building many temples in its honor at Edfu, Philae and Thebes, it had a great influence over the Arabs in their deserts, "giving rise," Allen has recorded, "to many of their proverbs, stories and superstitions," and being regarded as having the power to impart both immunity from disease and exquisite color to precious stones.

Sirius and Canopus are both vividly white stars, with a cast of piercing blue in their rays. When high in the sky on a serene evening Sirius burns steadily like a point of the intensest electric fire. Now and then, as an atmospheric wave passes, a flash of color may appear. But the star's beauty becomes unearthly when it is near the horizon, for then, owing to its great brilliance, its spectral hues show with perfect distinctness, as the atmospheric undulations produce, by changing refraction, the splendid spectacle of a living prism, when, as Tennyson described it:

And bickers into red and emerald."

"Good Nature"

IT IS fine to be good-natured in the performance of duties where you are working.

Don't carry your good-nature to the point where you do not give sufficient sober thought to the job in hand.

You pride yourself on your ability to throw off trouble.

You boast that you do not permit trifles to annoy you.

But it is possible to go so far with this that you do not attach enough importance to the mistakes you make.

Little things about your place of employment which should be corrected may be overlooked by you.

You may try to avoid getting into a nervous state, but you should not sidestep duty if it means inconvenience to you.

Slipshod methods do not make for success.

At times every business needs critical and strenuous attention to detail to save it from the rocks.

Little inaccuracies lead to disastrous results.

Don't be too good-natured to give complete attention to your job.

The Rhyming Optimist
By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Man Who Fears

THE man who fears lends weapons to his foes
And wastes his strength in vain;
He sees fresh menace in each wind that blows,
Fresh threats of loss or pain.

His very terror beckons to defeat,
Invites the thing he dreads,
And all his courage, all his faiths retreat
While fears lift awful heads.

The man who fears is Folly's lowest slave,
Most ignorant, most weak;
For life grants all her laurels to the brave,
Denying naught they seek.

Bottled Vitamins

NOBODY has ever seen a vitamin—that elusive and hypothetical something in our food which is supposed to keep us fit. That doesn't prevent the diet experts from going right on discovering and labeling new vitamins.

They are down the alphabet as far as the letter D. The A, B and C vitamins are tasty but expensive, since you have to buy them in milk, butter, meats or vegetables. Heretofore you got vitamin D in cod liver oil and you didn't like it.

Now, however, the chemists have compounded a drug called "ergostrol," which, they tell us, is full of D vitamins, tasty and cheap. A bottle of it on the dinner table is expected to beat in usefulness the bottle that the law has banned.

What a relief for housewives when all food comes from chemists in bottles!

Ye Towne Gossip
by K. C. B.

EVERY ONCE in a while.

IN CONVERSATION.

WITH OUR girl or boy.

SOMETHING IS said.

THAT LEAVES me groggy.

IN A mental way.

AND FLOUNDERING.

FOR AN apt reply.

AND JUST for instance.

ON YESTERDAY.

I TOOK the occasion.

TO CHIDE THE girl.

FOR BRAGGING of something.

THAT SHE possessed.

TO A friend of hers.

ON THE telephone.

AND WHEN SHE was through.

I SAID to her.

IT WAS quite all right.

TO SPEAK of it.

BUT SHE shouldn't brag.

AND SHE said to me.

"WHY, I never brag.

"ABOUT ANYTHING.

"BUT JUST you and mother."

AND THAT was that.

AND I went on reading

AND IN the evening.

WE WERE having guests.

TO DINE with us.

AND I SAID to the boy.

WHO IS eleven.

THAT I wanted him.

TO WEAR his blue suit.

AND LOOK his best.

AND PARTICULARLY.

I HAD A desire.

HE SHOULD remember.

TO CONDUCT himself.

IN A proper way.

AND BE very careful.

AT THE dinner table.

AND NOT to speak.

WHILE OTHERS were speaking.

AND HE spoke up.

AND SAID to me.

"SURE I will, Daddy.

"BECAUSE I know.

"YOU WANT everybody

"THAT COMES to our house.

"TO KNOW how swell.

"YOU'RE BRINGING us up.

"AND I'M goin' to help you.

"ALL I can."

AND I tried to tell him.

THAT HE had me wrong.

AND THAT IT was he.

I WAS interested in.

AND WHENEVER I doubt.

I'M TELLING the truth.

I ALWAYS cough.

AND I started to cough.

AND ONCE again.

I RETURNED to my book.

I THANK you.

They Eat, That's Why

BRITISH doctors have discovered — apparently somewhat to their surprise—that more unmarried persons between the ages of 30 and 50 suffer from indigestion than married ones.

The information is interesting. But there's nothing very mysterious about the comparative freedom from stomach ills among dwellers in the blessed state of matrimony.

Single people lead hit-or-miss lives. They are likely to be casual in their habits, particularly eating habits. Their abiding places are frequently rooming-houses and such, where facilities for providing food and drink are rather sketchy. To most bachelor men and maids what, when, how and where to eat is a problem always pressing, but never solved.

On the other hand, the great bulk of married folk live in homes. Be it ever so humble, what is home without a kitchen? And in that kitchen, wife or cook prepares three meals a day, day in and day out, at set times, the year 'round.

So husbands and wives eat. They eat home cooking, the only kind which doesn't pall on the palate after a season. More important still, they eat regularly.

No, nothing strange about the good digestion of the married. That's just part of the better health and longer lives they enjoy, as amply attested by insurance statistics.

Lincoln's Legacy
By DR. FRANK CRANE

A great man leaves the world two legacies.

One is the ideal which inspires young people to become more serviceable and worth while.

The other comprises those speeches of common-sense and idealism that we remember and repeat and revere because the great man said them.

In time they become part of the thought of those who repeat them and have an influence upon their lives.

Such are Thomas Jefferson's: "Let error be free so long as Truth is free to combat it;" Theodore Roosevelt's: "The law of worthy life is fundamentally the law of strife;" and Benjamin Franklin's: "Diligence is the mother of good luck."

Few men have left a richer legacy of the second form than Abraham Lincoln.

Put this nugget from the mine of his understanding up somewhere in a place where you will see it every day:

"STAND WITH ANYBODY THAT STANDS RIGHT. STAND WITH HIM WHILE HE IS RIGHT, AND PART WITH HIM WHEN HE GOES WRONG."

Here are two tests:

When the one you dislike most says something right, can you take his side?

When the one you admire and like best, is on the wrong side, does the fact that you like him blind you to the error?

Everyone has his pet hate.

It may be a man in public life, a newspaper, a writer of books, or an attitude of mind.

When he meets it, it acts like a red flag to a bull. The test of that person's character is whether he can recognize the right when it comes from one of his hates.

You can't go very far in life without meeting the problem.

The easy thing to do is to condemn all the ideas of those with whom you disagree in the main.

Most people don't like the ideas of the ones they don't like. They judge ideas on the basis of who said them.

Everyone is a mixture of truth and error. Even the people we dislike. Only a Silurian-brained individual can get up a pure unadulterated hate.

Others catch the occasional gleam of goodness and truth that is present in the worst.

Emerson says somewhere that a man is cultured "as soon as he sides with his critic against himself, with joy."

Similarly, a man begins to become great, in the Lincoln sense of the word, when he arrives at the place where he can stand with ANYBODY that stands right as long as they are right, without regard to his likes and dislikes.

When Lincoln was assassinated the mortal part of him disappeared, but the better part, his spiritual influence, still lingers.

Around him has grown up, perhaps, a wealth of myth, but most of them serve to give point to his character. He will remain for all time as the inspiration to the youth of the world, who can do no better than to imitate his sterling honesty, his sense of humor and his strong sense of right.

Right Angles
By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

The Soul of Lincoln

LINCOLN, like the great Galilean, looms increasingly large as the years step silently away from the tragic day of his martyrdom.

Had he been a Viking of the Norsemen, pointing the prow of his brigantine into the fiords of Scandinavian seas some 30 centuries ago, today he would be deified with Odin and Thor, and hold a secure niche in the Islandic pantheon.

In all the glad galaxy of heroes in Americana only the abolitionist, Wendell Phillips, approaches Lincoln, the emancipator, for purity of motive, altitude of vision and Galilean vicariousness. Let the youth of America study Lincoln. He will never be eclipsed or superseded in the annals of our land.

Just see him entering Richmond after its capitulation. As yet the city was all confusion and disorder. The Federals had entered the city only the day before, so as yet there was no effective patrol. Lincoln entered with four companions and a guard of only 10 marines. Every step and every minute was fraught with danger. Hostility filled the streets and looked from the windows and lurked in the shadows.

But Lincoln walked in safety! And the eager-eyed people flocking to see him made his entry a triumph. One old Negro cried out, "Bres de Lord! Dere is the great Messiah!" And he fell on his knees and kissed the President's feet.

One day while visiting Libby Prison somebody in the company remarked to Lincoln that Jefferson Davis ought to be hanged. And Charles Summer heard the magnanimous reply, "Judge not that ye be not judged."

It is such flashes of divinity in the biography of this man which set him apart for immortality. So long as love and magnanimity and devotion live, Lincoln will live, and not till the kindly passions of humanity die will there by any taps sounded over the memory of his name.

In all the voluminous Lincoln literature the finest sentence was written by Edwin Markham, the "Dean of American Poets." It should be engraved on the tablet of every American heart:

"And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky."
